Thread: So are middlemen dead? Or are people just stupid?

rSM- - March 12, 2020, 6:25 pm

More and more disputes are popping up against "trusted" members of the forum for scamming/exit scamming, and it makes me wonder.... are middlemen not a thing anymore or are you all just fucking retards? Can't imagine sending a large amount of money to someone on your own without using any precautions that are given on the forum. Can't say the people who got scammed by these "trusted" members deserved it, but a little blue user bar called UB3R doesn't mean shit. Anyone can upgrade and immediately be considered trusted apparently. Like come on now... I thought it was quite obvious to protect yourself and your sale with a middleman or other precautions given on HF for deals but I guess not. I don't know if its just me, but it gives me quite a good laugh when dipshits do these $500+ deals and then wonder why they were ripped off and why staff won't do shit to help them. Surely if you're doing such a large deal with that amount of money you can pay a little extra to make sure you're safe? Idk.

Also to the dipshit that cussed me out because I called him out for getting scammed on an $800+ dollar deal without a middleman, hope the person who exit scammed you is using your money to their hearts content <3 and you can all bitch and cry all you want. Sorry you weren't smart enough to use what was given to you.

Troll because I don't consider ub3rs trusted, they are just a lil more trusted than without the bar I guess

First of all, its you're

Second of all, this post was meant to be an attack at the people who get scammed, cry about it, and wonder why no one helps them out even though there are precautions in place to prevent it. Not about the people who middleman themselves. I'd suggest re-reading the thread before calling anyone stupid rofl

I do not have the need to read. I know exactly how I worded my statement and I said it in that specific way. Let's get technical tho your new who knows maybe old and making a thread to bash the dumb, but your apart of them.

I think the best thing about this entire thread is that you did it over one person and he still got his money +some.

I thought you had to be approved to get ub3r.

Thought so too, now it seems like everyone and their mother has it on the forum and all of these mass exit scams stem from it. I guess buying your way into a blue userbar means you're trusted in peoples eyes, which I don't understand

Also when I joined I noticed that the reputation system meant absolutely nothing and decided to host a byte giveaway for neg rep to prove that it doesn't mean Clay Davis. The B rating I can get behind though, although it seems it can be fairly abused I believe. So far from my stay I've met a lot of genuine people and a lot of fake losers that don't do Clay Davis except shove their UB3R down peoples throats like it makes them some kind of god. Gotta say though shoutout to @Pronouncer mans a fugging legend and a genuine person. As for the rep, what is it supposed to prove, other than what people think of you in pre-written messages that don't actually give insight to anything? As far as I saw, rep is just another tool to take advantage of scamming an unsuspecting person, and can be easily done through the rep-whoring threads that HF breeds. The reputation system is probably my biggest dislike of the forum.
is that pronouncer speaking on his multi?

upgraded member like him have a multi that has -100 rep which pretty much denies them from doing much of anything? Seeing that you're a multi.... are you?
