

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: This coronavirus thing is starting to scare me.

Angela White - March 19, 2020, 6:28 am

Wasn't scared before, but between my mom telling my entire family that we're all going to die and going fucking crazy the last 2 weeks, New York doubling it's infected since yesterday, and a whole bunch of other stuff, now I'm being told that the MILITARY POLICE are guarding the two main stores in my city. Everyone is buying guns and I guess there's being break-ins reported at local businesses & more armed robberies happen.

I live in a "rich white neighborhood" with virtually 0 crime that's so safe that people send their 5 year olds out to walk a mile to school every morning by themselves, and now the military police is guarding stores, all our restaurants, tattoo shops, bars, hair salons, parks, and events are cancelled / closed.

Also read something that the lethality rate in the US is like 57% or some shit?

What the fuck is going on?

Axe - March 19, 2020, 6:32 am

Lethality rate in the US is about 1.59%, where in the world did you get 57% from?

latiendaadss - March 19, 2020, 6:44 am

Nothing to be scared of if everyone just calms the f*ck down and stay in their homes. Social distancing is key.

Riggs - March 19, 2020, 6:52 am

(Mar 19, 2020 06:28 AM)convolk Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I live in a "rich white neighborhood" with virtually 0 crime that's so safe that people send their 5 year olds out to walk a mile to school every morning by themselves, and now the military police is guarding stores, all our restaurants, tattoo shops, bars, hair salons, parks, and events are cancelled / closed.

Were you raised in an environment of Fisher Price rounded corners and bright colors, where talking animals taught you the alphabet?

Maskin - March 19, 2020, 6:53 am

The more I looked into it, I realized that media is making it more than it is. I'm not saying to not take it seriously (you should), but damn they made it seem more dangerous than it actually is...

Yumeko - March 19, 2020, 6:55 am it's scary that the U.S is only beginning to test but it's not the end of the world; as long as you stay isolated and practice social distancing if you need to go out, your family is g funtela - March 19, 2020, 6:59 am

The only scary part of this is all the sheep following and believing the bs on the media.

Angela White - March 19, 2020, 8:23 am

(Mar 19, 2020 06:32 AM)Axe Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Lethality rate in the US is about 1.59%, where in the world did you get 57% from?

random numbers being thrown around. my mom's out here saying 40%, my boss says 8%, news articles i see (from trusted sources) range from 1% - 30%, etc.

Axe - March 19, 2020, 8:26 am

(Mar 19, 2020 08:23 AM)convolk Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) random numbers being thrown around. my mom's out here saying 40%, my boss says 8%, news articles i see (from trusted sources) range from 1% - 30%, etc.

<https://www.worldometers.info/coronavirus/>

Mind sharing these "trusted sources"?

Geralt - March 19, 2020, 8:29 am

Welcome to the real world boy.

A + - March 19, 2020, 9:12 am

(Mar 19, 2020 06:52 AM)Riggs Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Were you raised in an environment of Fisher Price rounded corners and bright colors, where talking animals taught you the alphabet?

Lol classic.

Bro I'm trying not to smoke at this point, and not even because of the crap going around but because I don't want to. This virus is seriously 10 kinds of annoying. You guys just be safe out there, and wash your effing hands.

Connected - March 19, 2020, 9:17 am

He's probably quoting the percentage based on "CLOSED CASES" which is low. Only 268 closed cases. In which the lethality rate is 60%

KushBlowin - March 19, 2020, 9:21 am

Do not let it scare you. Older people are the ones at high risk. For the rest of us it's a really bad flu. It will take a long time to die out though. Also, with all the media attention. Expect lockdowns to last a long time.

Elweth - March 19, 2020, 9:25 am

(Mar 19, 2020 06:59 AM)funtela Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) The only scary part of this is all the sheep following and believing the bs on the media.

I would be worried seeing how Trump/Boris handles covid tho.

Roberto Scorpius Malfoy - March 19, 2020, 9:27 am

(Mar 19, 2020 06:32 AM)Axe Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Lethality rate in the US is about 1.59%, where in the world did you get 57% from?

It's even 61.5% where did you get your 1.59% from?

Honestly, I am tired of you spreading fake sources all the time, enough is enough.

Vyrkfrir - March 19, 2020, 9:30 am

Don't be scared, if you're young and healthy you have nothing to worry about. The real concern is that elderly family members may not make it through this.

Give them a phonecall. Catch up with them. It could be your last. I'm only saying that because I just reminded myself to call my grandfather since its been months.

Mortality rate is about 4% of infected last I seen. Please correct me if recent updates have changed this.

Luca - March 19, 2020, 11:32 am

Don't let it get to you. Everyone is totally overreacting.

Axe - March 19, 2020, 11:38 am

(Mar 19, 2020 09:27 AM)Roberto Scorpius Malfoy Wrote: CITE It's even 61.5% where did you get your 1.59% from?

Honestly, I am tired of you spreading fake sources all the time, enough is enough.
You are honestly so fucking dumb, if that reply was posted by anyone else I'd think they were trolling. If you really think the US mortality rate is 61.5% you should get your head checked.