Thread: ScratchCard!

Klonopin - March 20, 2020, 8:05 pm

is it worth spending 1000 bytes on a card?

i was thinking it but it took me so long to get to 1k haha but if its worth it lmk and ill waste my bytes lol

Do it and tell me if I should as well! Thanks!

All up to you obviously, but since you just reached 1k I would wait a bit until you get to atleast 1.5 that way in the chance that you DO lose, you still have some bytes to fall back on for anything else (hackuman, slots, blackjack, etc)

Dorrance - March 20, 2020, 8:32 pm

Honestly no they are worthless, you might as well play slots. Slots could be easily winning profit it doesn't take much to profit and majority it's like a 1/6 chance of winning something.

If you are trying to invest you should purchase around 8-13 scratches which is around 8000-13000 bytes. You could luckily make profit or lose profit, most likely you will lose if you just purchase one scratcher.

I did it once and it was the fastest loss of 1k bytes ever =) but..... you probably have better luck than me so good luck OP!

Maskin - March 20, 2020, 10:12 pm

Bought a couple of the 1k bytes scratch cards and most of them are either losses or break even (1k win).

I won 5k bytes twice out of ~20 cards

I haven't tried it yet but will surely be when I've got bytes to spent.

I've heard mostly that it's not that much worthy but some have their luck with this Scratch Card.

Hoping when the time I try it out I will get what they call beginner's luck :)

If you're up to gamble some bytes why not do it? Would be nice winning a cool prize off of it but I dont understand you not wanting to lose out on your bytes. Whatever you decide to do, I wish you good luck!

Linux X - March 21, 2020, 12:02 am

From 8k Bytes, I won 7k bytes...

Astrogen - March 21, 2020, 12:34 am

I tried that once but it was from a friend, and haven't won anything. Not gonna buy it again, don't wanna lose my bytes. But those dollar scratchcards can get you nice amount of bytes, it's much better to spend on it that buying those bytes scratchcards.

Renestey - March 21, 2020, 1:24 am

I rather throw my Bytes into slots, or now during this dip I'm hoarding Ether. But also raising a Haku at the same time, there's never enough Bytes!

eXceptional - March 21, 2020, 1:39 am

Scratch Cards are worth to invest in if you have about 12K. Be prepared if you lose all of them but if you win thank me by donating 50% of that amount.
