Thread: Email Subscriptions for Convos

Ombra - March 21, 2020, 4:03 am

I live with email and browser notifications, whenever I get one I make sure to check its content asap. This happens with private messages and thread replies.

I would like to know if Conversations can be included in the MyBB email subscription system, so that users can opt to receive an email whenever somebody starts/replies to an existing Convo.

Considering that PM button has been removed from postbit and that new users deal usually with convos, I believe first or after they should be included in the HF email subscription system, but it's my idea.

P.S. subscribing to receive email notifications for this thread, as usual ?

Of course it can implemented, just the question is, will they implement it - will there is a potential in this feature and how many people will use it. We'll see what Xero and Omni have to say about it.

We will not do this. Emails are at a premium and often abused. We might do Push Notifications. Are you signed up for those?
