I don't have this specific kind, but I had 2 smaller parrots. They're nice to have, but keep in mind they are loud as FUCK.

Luca - March 27, 2020, 4:51 am

Very specific question lol. I doubt you're gonna get a lot of answers. I also think parrots are super cute but I don't think my cat would get along with them.

Social Engineer - March 27, 2020, 7:41 am

I find them super annoying, I'd much prefer something like a cat.

He was super cool. You'll have to clean his cage and all. Lots of seeds and bird poop. Their mohawk is crazy awesome and they'll hang upside down, talk back to you etc. Really cool birds, but mine only lived about 2 years. Got another and same for him :(

I owned one of these too. Congo African Grey Parrot. Those things will probably outlive most humans. Super cool birds but a little more expensive. They're smart as hell though, and they do that dance when they hear music or you start moving. Pretty cool birds.

How long do they live for? African Greys have always intrigued me.

I have a green cheek conure and they are honestly loud as fuck. If you can be bothered to wake up early every morning to a screaming bird go ahead. Other than that they shit a lot but they are lit as fuck.

Ok my numbers might have been a little bit off. Apparently only 40 – 60 years according to Google. I was told around 80+ when I got mine, but that was in like 94.

Dude don't hate on them. I got mine before they were "cool", but that bird was awesome. His name was Zeus, and the first time he looked at me and said "Hey Zeus" I almost lost my mind. Really smart bird, and super cool.

What would happen if he was to sell it?

Casual - March 27, 2020, 8:04 am

My family owned a cockatoo when I was younger. Fuck that thing.

It picked up on Spongebob's laugh and would do it all fucking day long. You could hear this demon from a block over screaming.

It would fly around the house attacking me at random. It was also a "rescue bird" so maybe it went through some shit. Either way, I got the feeling birds don't like being in a house or cage.

But just in the case someone did, because I see it happening often, what can go wrong?

Funny story. We had him for about 8 or 9 years and then my mom gave him to my landlord for rent money. She let him out while she was washing her car and he flew away lol. We paid like 2k for that bird. I was upset when she gave him away.

Oh wow, that would've been gutting. Did the landlord not say anything after that?

I was mad. I was still a kid but it was my step-aunt that let it happen. I was ticked but I didn't hear much from them.

I can imagine, that must've been tough as a child. I remember when my parents sold our pet, had a huge tantrum.
