Thread: OSRS Account Botting progress thread - Writing humanized scripts for every skill

Jimmy Conway - March 28, 2020, 6:42 am

Started a new account on OSRS purely for the purpose of writing humanized bots, that are undetected & fully external (work with regular OSRS clients, to avoid detection). The goal is to get as many skills as I can, as high as I can, without being banned. I will be taking breaks botting, and only be botting for a couple of hours at a time. Will also be making a discord for the bot to post updates to automatically, upon leveling and shit, for each skill.

Woodcutting

I've started with a wood cutting bot, where you just mark the trees and it will cut them, wait till trees have been hit 32 times and then drop the logs. Using a human mouse movement library, to do all of the mouse movement ofcourse, with some random delays between actions. Some timings need to be changed and aren't perfect, but for a quick script it works well. Going to bot over night with random breaks, and move to better spots & upgrade axe.

Good luck on your journey brother.

Mango™ - March 28, 2020, 6:01 pm

Are you worried about them checking your mouse coordinates for clicks? If they see the same coordinate every time they will ban you for it.

mudbenson - March 28, 2020, 9:04 pm

I just got back into it myself... Banned after a day lol. need to take breaks.

Yea I'm curious as to how they catch bots now-adays. I assume they have people running around these special locations checking but a lot of it is computer algorithm I feel like. But definitely, if you don't take breaks you will get got. I fished anglers for about 6 months, never got caught. Then one day, bam.

Jimmy Conway - March 29, 2020, 2:17 pm

Botted to lvl 40 WC and moved to draynor on the willow logs. Only botting for an hour or 2 at a time, then taking breaks, like a human would. Going to be doing this f2p too, pm me if you'd like any of the scripts im using.

What program are you using to write these scripts for the bots?

Gorgy - March 30, 2020, 1:33 pm

If your mouse clicks and movements follow the same pattern that is instant ban.

its not farming that gets you caught or levelling dude its the lack of doing quests ... and coding bots to quest for you is ridiculously hard to do ... but the time your finished hacking the game you might as well have crEATED YOUR OWN RUNESCAPE GAME

Decided to make a bit of progress, updated the thread

Humaantje - April 4, 2020, 3:51 pm

If its possible I suggest you let the bot drop the logs at a random rate rather than to put it in a set 32 times. Might be more human-like.

Wtf are you on about?

What gets you caught is when their detection system finds a pattern.

What gets you caught is when you keep the account active for far too long at a time, attracting attention to yourself.

What gets you caught is not having a complex enough solution for randomness (intentional miss clicks which the bot corrects itself, randomly switching between clicking patterns in for example ur inv every x amount of inventories, and so on).

What gets you caught is using the exact same script for too long instead of changing it up, because no script is perfect and they'll find something eventually.

What gets you caught is stupid bad luck.

Just because you don't do quests on an account doesn't mean you're gonna get detected as a bot. There are so many legit players that just grind out skills semi-AFK or AFK without doing quests, or who have alts on which they play like this.

The way OP seems to be writing his bot, seems like it's AHK or Autolt or similar. Probably AHK as that's the most popular choice. Since he's clearly using color detection (to be able to select which trees to cut by marking them, etc) he probably knows enough to write a pretty decent script if he takes the time and effort to do so.

Good job OP, I would love to see more progress updates in the future.
I know you're probably not going to share it at all, I personally wouldn't, but I would love to know more about your approach in writing these scripts.

are you stupid? the time that the tree takes to chop is random. it could be 1 second and give me no logs, it could be 3 seconds with someone else chopping it with me. or it could be 7 seconds for 3 logs. that makes it random. it drops the logs after the tree is CLICKED 32 times.

Tbh he had a point. If the 32 is constant, JaGeX will detect this.

read what i just said. been botting for weeks and never banned. how many times have you wrote a script? 0 . you know nothing, you are just speculating ive already replied to that, and no they wont recognise someone dropping logs as a bot action rofl. every player in the fucking game drops logs when their chopping trees.

Mango™ - April 5, 2020, 11:15 am

I would say the closest thing they can do to log you while woodcutting is measuring coordinate clicks. If you click each tree in a specific spot each time, it will red flag. Dropping logs is stupid to think they will detect that. Unless its like magics or something. Hows the progress coming?

True. Not every player drops them at the same interval every time, though. Some randomness is natural.

The fact you're dismissing this means you're a bit overconfident as to risk of bans imo. Not saying you will definitely get banned, just saying the chance you will is not 0 at all.

yes that is why i add a random number in a specific range to the x/y co-ordinate when clicking. and also use a humaniz mouse movement wrapper to move the mouse to the actual coordinates.

I'd be mainly worried about botting in common areas. I'd stick to the teak trees near castlewars far in the distance or something till you level a lot. When I botted fishing I stuck to F2P until I was 90 lol. Took about 3 weeks to get there but when I got there I was raking in 9m a day off Anglers cause it was so fast. But I can tell you this.. that damn requirement to fish anglers at a low level S U CK S

Very interesting thread. have you read this? <http://rs-hacking.com/resources/macroingdetection.pdf>

do you have plans to code money makers?

Mango™ - April 6, 2020, 10:53 am

I've heard a great money maker is the mushroom farmers in the mort' myre swamp.

Jimmy Conway - April 8, 2020, 7:48 pm

My luck is insane, I was sick of botting skilling so I decided to splash some magic levels and go and try to KO some lvl 3 looters at wildy. I'd just picked up my gear from GE and was running along the wildy border on a random world, and seen a pile of runes along it on the wildy side, so I crossed and grabbed them. Looted the pile and it was 31.4m in fucking runes, and some random lvl 5 noob came 5mns later crying that he had just lost his bank.

Got to cb lvl 6 with only magic and KO'd a few looters, now I'm splashing to 23 magic, 7 def and 14 hp to fight some low levels, since magic hits high.

Will update thread with bot progress and videos soon, most likely today.

EDIT: Also looking for money making recommendations and simple scripts I can make for money making.
