

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: Outlook unusual activity help

SK8PT - March 28, 2020, 7:34 pm

Hi guys,

My outlook email account was recently blocked with the warning of unusual activity and I am unable to log into my account.

Ask to verify my mobile phone number, which is my old mobile number and I no longer have access to it.

Is there any possibility to bypass this and login in the account?

I've tried to remember my old mobile number to see if I could get it from the telecommunications company but I don't remember it at all.

And already tried recover the account using the form but doesn't work...

Someone can help me?

Thanks! ?

Nights - March 28, 2020, 11:10 pm

When they notice a sign-in attempt from a new location or device, they help protect the account by sending you an email message and an SMS alert.

Your Outlook.com account might be temporarily blocked because they noticed some unusual sign-in activity.

you can try proxy in order to byepass,

You can also use socks because they are cheap and work just fine.

SK8PT - March 29, 2020, 8:11 am

(Mar 28, 2020 11:10 PM)Nights Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#)

When they notice a sign-in attempt from a new location or device, they help protect the account by sending you an email message and an SMS alert.

Your Outlook.com account might be temporarily blocked because they noticed some unusual sign-in activity.

you can try proxy in order to byepass,

You can also use socks because they are cheap and work just fine.

Thanks for your reply mate!

The account was created in my country. Do i still need to use proxy or socks?

The account has been like this for a few months.

Regards.

SK8PT - May 9, 2020, 8:59 am

Can someone help me?

Thanks.