

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: Officers Disperse Birthday Party Crowd Amid COVID-19 Pandemic

SIM-3257834 - March 29, 2020, 11:57 pm

[Video: <https://youtu.be/jRVvMoEoltU>]

People need to learn that now's not the time to have Bday parties. My sister and grandma just recently had their birthday and we celebrated just with our nuclear family.

Also in case someone is clueless what nuclear family here's what it is

<https://www.merriam-webster.com/words-at-play/nuclear-family-history-origin>

Sister said that her bday sucked but at least she got an S20. Meanwhile, I'm over here rocking an s10. It would be a perfect life lesson for the kids considering most are spoiled brats.

Net - March 30, 2020, 12:00 am

State issues a "stay at home" order. People from the ghetto: AYO LETS CELEBRATE.

Yanix - March 30, 2020, 12:03 am

(Mar 29, 2020 11:57 PM)Cake Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) [Video: <https://youtu.be/jRVvMoEoltU>]

People need to learn that now's not the time to have Bday parties. My sister and grandma just recently had their birthday and we celebrated just with our nuclear family.

Also in case someone is clueless what nuclear family here's what it is

<https://www.merriam-webster.com/words-at-play/nuclear-family-history-origin>

Sister said that her bday sucked but at least she got an S20. Meanwhile, I'm over here rocking an s10. It would be a perfect life lesson for the kids considering most are spoiled brats.

It's right thing to do because they were not act accordingly what the authorities have said...no social gatherings, practice social distancing and stay at home.

Simple task but most people taking hard to obey...it's for their safety to prevent and contain the spread of the virus.

Renestey - March 30, 2020, 12:05 am

People really need to get their shit together and stay in

Rsynced - March 30, 2020, 12:06 am

People are retarded. Those cops are retarded. Are they trying to get infected themselves?

Motusora - March 30, 2020, 12:07 am

US now leads the number of covid19 infected individuals , los angeles alone has 37 deaths and counting .

people are stocking foods and afraid to go outside while these people out there partying . nice ???

Rsynced - March 30, 2020, 12:08 am

(Mar 30, 2020 12:07 AM)Motusora Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) US now leads the number of covid19 infected individuals , los angeles alone has 37 deaths and counting .

people are stocking foods and afraid to go outside while these people out there partying . nice ???

That's the rap game dawg ;)

Bossk - March 30, 2020, 12:13 am

(Mar 30, 2020 12:00 AM)Net Ninja Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) State issues a "stay at home" order. People from the ghetto: AYO LETS CELEBRATE.
that is so true man

Rsynced - March 30, 2020, 12:18 am

(Mar 30, 2020 12:13 AM)Bossk Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) that is so true man
They have been under self-quarantine their whole lives.

SIM-3609092 - March 30, 2020, 8:16 am

People like this are the reason we aren't going to have a summer.

Nuworld - March 30, 2020, 8:19 am

(Mar 29, 2020 11:57 PM)Cake Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) [Video: <https://youtu.be/jRVvMoEoltU>]

People need to learn that now's not the time to have Bday parties. My sister and grandma just recently had their birthday and we celebrated just with our nuclear family.

Also in case someone is clueless what nuclear family here's what it is
<https://www.merriam-webster.com/words-at-play/nuclear-family-history-origin>

Sister said that her bday sucked but at least she got an S20. Meanwhile, I'm over here rocking an s10. It would be a perfect life lesson for the kids considering most are spoiled brats.

Yeah the cops here in Ohio just busted up party of kids doing the same.

No wonder we can't control the spread of the virus.

SIM-3609092 - March 30, 2020, 8:21 am

(Mar 30, 2020 08:19 AM)Nuworld Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Yeah the cops here in Ohio just busted up party of kids doing the same.

No wonder we can't control the spread of the virus.

I hope they enjoy the fat ass fine they probably got for being dumb.

Herbert - March 30, 2020, 9:58 am

Now I understand why it's spreading so fast in the US.

Xerotic - March 30, 2020, 10:08 am

I tend to disagree with the use of government force to enact "stay at home" policies. I think it is a step down the wrong path. I think Americans should have the freedoms afforded to them by the Bill of Rights. I think when the government tries to restrict these freedoms in times of crisis (recent attacks on due process, gun rights, public gathering, and protest) that the government is going way beyond their scope of power. I think that the citizens should be appalled the government would threaten their freedoms in such a way.

That being said, I think it is the personal and social responsibility for citizens to practice "stay at home" and social distancing during a pandemic. I just don't think the government should forcibly restrict freedoms. That's the beauty of America. It isn't designed to be perfect or for everyone to conform. It's designed for cases like these to happen, for people to do dumb things. For people to make choices. For people to have freedom. And I'd rather that than the other thing.

Nuworld - March 30, 2020, 10:18 am

(Mar 30, 2020 10:08 AM)Xerotic Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I tend to disagree with the use of government force to enact "stay at home" policies. I think it is a step down the wrong path. I think Americans should have the freedoms afforded to them by the Bill of Rights. I think when the government tries to restrict these freedoms in times of crisis (recent attacks on due process, gun rights, public gathering, and protest) that the government is going way beyond their scope of power. I think that the citizens should be appalled the government would threaten their freedoms in such a way.

That being said, I think it is the personal and social responsibility for citizens to practice "stay at home" and social distancing during a pandemic. I just don't think the government should forcibly restrict freedoms. That's the beauty of America. It isn't designed to be perfect or for everyone to conform. It's designed for cases like these to happen, for people to do dumb things. For people to make choices. For people to have freedom. And I'd rather that than the other thing.

I would have to agree to a point.

However if nothing is done then this virus will never be contained.

Life as we know it would be gone.

Just my opinion.

SIM-3257834 - March 30, 2020, 10:50 am

(Mar 30, 2020 10:08 AM)Xerotic Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I tend to disagree with the use of government force to enact "stay at home" policies. I think it is a step down the wrong path. I think Americans should have the freedoms afforded to them by the Bill of Rights. I think when the government tries to restrict these freedoms in times of crisis (recent attacks on due process, gun rights, public gathering, and protest) that the government is going way beyond their scope of power. I think that the citizens should be appalled the government would threaten their freedoms in such a way.

That being said, I think it is the personal and social responsibility for citizens to practice "stay at home" and social distancing during a pandemic. I just don't think the government should forcibly restrict freedoms. That's the beauty of America. It isn't designed to be perfect or for everyone to conform. It's designed for cases like these to happen, for people to do dumb things. For people to make choices. For people to have freedom. And I'd rather that than the other thing. I'd argue that no one 1st amendment was impede due to the ability to setup a virtual public gathering. Plus under the 10th this could arguably fall under police powers for public health and safety.

Xerotic - March 30, 2020, 11:02 am

(Mar 30, 2020 10:50 AM)Cake Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I'd argue that no one 1st amendment was impede due to the ability to setup a virtual public gathering. Plus under the 10th this could arguably fall under police powers for public health and safety.

The 10th amendment is not a government catch-all to give them power. In fact it is almost exactly the opposite. It is to delegate responsibility to the states' governments. Let's see what it says.

10th Amendment of the US Constitution Wrote: The powers not delegated to the United States by the Constitution, nor prohibited by it to the States, are reserved to the States respectively, or to the people

"The amendment states but a truism that all is retained which has not been surrendered" ~

<https://www.law.cornell.edu/constitution-conan/amendment-10/scope-and-purpose>

Furthermore, the 9th amendment addresses the importance of the Bill of Rights and what the "default" rights are of any person.

9th Amendment of the US Constitution Wrote: The enumeration in the Constitution, of certain rights, shall not be construed to deny or disparage others retained by the people.

This amendment is one of the most important. It says that the Constitution is not a comprehensive list of rights that citizens retain, but rather the most important rights that needed to be written down. The 9th amendment in that regard is really profound. It tells us that we specifically need to scrutinize when these listed rights are jeopardized. It says that the framers of our country were so worried that these rights could be violated, that they needed to be written down just two years after the US

Constitution was ratified.

So I disagree with your usage of the 10th amendment to grant an arbitrary police force to violate any and/or all other aspects of the US Constitution.

Xtreme™ - March 30, 2020, 11:11 am

Lucky that wasn't here in India , Police here roam around with sticks and any one found roaming unnecessarily or in groups are warned . If they do not listen they will start whacking the shit out of you!

The police here even bring you your essentials and medicines if your ill or old to go out. India is doing everything to at least not reach stage 3.

I don't know when people will understand that the virus can't move on its own but it moves around through people. So social distancing is fucking important!

Stay Home, Stay Safe!

Cheers!

SIM-3257834 - March 30, 2020, 11:12 am

(Mar 30, 2020 11:02 AM)Xerotic Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) The 10th amendment is not a government catch-all to give them power. In fact it is almost exactly the opposite. It is to delegate responsibility to the states' governments. Let's see what it says.

"The amendment states but a truism that all is retained which has not been surrendered" ~ <https://www.law.cornell.edu/constitution-conan/amendment-10/scope-and-purpose>

Furthermore, the 9th amendment addresses the importance of the Bill of Rights and what the "default" rights are of any person.

This amendment is one of the most important. It says that the Constitution is not a comprehensive list of rights that citizens retain, but rather the most important rights that needed to be written down. The 9th amendment in that regard is really profound. It tells us that we specifically need to scrutinize when these listed rights are jeopardized. It says that the framers of our country were so worried that these rights could be violated, that they needed to be written down just two years after the US Constitution was ratified.

So I disagree with your usage of the 10th amendment to grant an arbitrary police force to violate any and/or all other aspects of the US Constitution.

I wouldn't go as far as to say violated. After all we are in a time of crisis, if we aren't distancing ourselves and avoid in person gatherings. We're only harming the community and endangering others.

(Mar 30, 2020 11:11 AM)Xtreme™ Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Lucky that wasn't here in India , Police here roam around with sticks and any one found roaming unnecessarily or in groups are warned . If they do not listen they will start whacking the Clay Davis out of you!

The police here even bring you your essentials and medicines if your ill or old to go out. India is doing everything to at least not reach stage 3.

I don't know when people will understand that the virus can't move on its own but it moves around through people. So social distancing is fucking important!

Stay Home, Stay Safe!

Cheers!

The only issue is they're still physically touching people and getting close.

[Video: https://youtu.be/pN_UI3hZLMY]

Photograph - March 30, 2020, 2:18 pm

Naturally that would be the right thing to do.

Crowds are supposed to be avoided.

Who would throw a big party when there's a national pandemic?

Insanity.

1GGov2wivb1Pb6pyS7hmkDXYE - March 30, 2020, 8:14 pm

(Mar 30, 2020 02:18 PM)Photograph Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Naturally that would be the right thing to do.

Crowds are supposed to be avoided.

Who would throw a big party when there's a national pandemic?

Insanity.

Of course, and well, crowds should be avoided from what I hear.

Pennywise - March 30, 2020, 9:59 pm

That's some stupid shit here.

Lrrr - March 30, 2020, 10:44 pm

This was on LiveLeak last night grandpa

Xtreme™ - March 30, 2020, 11:56 pm

(Mar 30, 2020 11:12 AM)Cake Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) The only issue is they're still physically touching people and getting close.

Stage 3 is community transmission when the source of infection is not known for the majority of the infected population and new positive cases can no longer be traced to diagnosed cases. This would mean, the scale of the outbreak increases. India Still is in Stage 2 and doesn't wanna enter Stage 3.

More developed and less populated countries than ours haven't been able to manage it. Maybe it's best that our leaders are taking all the precautions they can at this point so we're ready to fight the disease at a greater scale if we do enter the stage of community transmission.

The police are doing all that they can do to refrain people from moving out without cause.

Here in this video, you can see them making people aware of the safety needed!

[Video: http://https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=ADnYMvaeq_c]