Thread: Whats your experience with SARMs?

gday mate - March 30, 2020, 5:27 am

I've got some LGD-4033 and GW-501516 (I know GW isn't a SARM) and plan on doing my first cycle of 8 weeks when this hectic shit has calmed down and gyms are back open.

What's your experience and results with sarms?

Cheers

Make sure you PCT after because your test will be crashed for sure with LGD.

I don't personally have any experience with SARMs only reason being is because I had a buddy that woke up temporarily blind from the Andarine.

I do have experience with Steroids on the other hand if you had some questions about that.

Yeah Ive used andaribe aswell, didn't Go blind but it made my vision yellowish.

I had a stack with S4, GW and Ostarine I did get leaner and more muscular, my friends said my shoulders started to look big.

But I didn't get full advantage of it because I didn't follow a diet, i just ate what ever the fuck I wanted. Looking to do a 2nd cycle soon and take it more serious Sarms are pretty amazing!

I would recommend mk-667 if you want some bone growth

To be honest I tend to stay away from S.A.R.M.S. just because its fairly new and hardly any studies about it. Steroids is for sure a far safer and better option if you are looking health wise and for quality gains.

humanbody - April 10, 2020, 10:16 pm

Since they are new and there aren't that many studies. It's weird, for some people it works and has 0 side effects but for some it completely messes them up. Personally me and my best friend took the SARMs you've mentioned, I had 0 side effects and the strength overall wasn't that great, I was expecting a bit more.

However my friend got all messed up, all kind of side effects: acne on his back, anger issues, not being able to sleep that well, feeling completely terrible, not motivated. I mean the list goes on and on. It was not a pleasant journey for him.

Since it's your first cycle I recommend you to go for testosterone only cycle so you know how your body reacts rather than trying multiple compounds and when you get side effects you won't know what caused what.

Go for test only cycle (testosterone enanthate). Don't fear the needles. Trust me, you will be surprised with the end results. Of course if your diet & training & sleep (8 hours) is on point.

I bought Ligandrol and Ostarine, and took them together to gain muscle while burn body fat, and they didn't work at all, or atleast not notably.

Why don't you just buy steroids instead of SARMS?

Sixen+ - April 14, 2020, 10:50 am

I'll be honest. I've done multiple cycles with S4 and LGD and this was a couple of years ago. I thought the gains were decent and I definitely found S4 to be my favorite for lean, dry mass. I had never experienced such hardness and vascularity before.

Fast forward to now. I quickly got over my fear of pinning myself and am currently on Test-P and NPP cycle w/ Anavar in my last 6 weeks. From the last time I've done SARMS I've done multiple test cycles. Nothing even comes close in comparison. Once you try real gear, you'll never go back. Plus, there's so much research and support around testosterone. No one really knows long term affects of SARM usage and I'd rather not be a guinea pig.

My advice, drop the SARM shit and hop on real gear.

Truest statement ever. Trust me.

Jivadi - April 14, 2020, 10:53 am

I took LGD4033. I saw size increase, nothing crazy. My natural test was killed and my Libido dropped bad. It is not worth it in my opinion. Jump on a test cycle. Its cheaper and the results are better.

True statement here, I was on 100mg S4 daily and I started experiencing INSANE visual side affects. To the point where I couldn't drive at night because I couldn't see shit. I remember this was a couple years ago @ university and my house was down a dark street. I turned onto my street and literally almost ran some girl over because I just couldn't see her in the dark. From then on, I realized that this side affect was NOT worth it.

Well,I mean, the dude is clearly willing to put his health at risk for dem gains,so why don't you just use the "validated" path, instead of the unsure one. I have used both in the past. They fucked me up. I wouldn't do it again. Now I finally understand that health is way more serious than looks. I learned this basic , obvious , statement the hard way tho
