Thread: Webdesign UI/UX - Improvements?

Zee - March 30, 2020, 11:58 am

Hey HF,

I have recently been working on a project, and I need your honest opinions on this Webdesign. If you have any feedback, please let me know. I haven't been doing UI/UX designs for a long time, and I feel like there is room for improvements.

Pretty nice, I like the colors

However it looks like kinda "empty", I don't know, maybe because of the background, or something else ?

Nice job though :)

Nice job though :)I tried with a gradient background as well, but personally I felt like the white background would put more focus towards the main content. Sometimes I get stuck with the designing process, as I get used to looking at the design as I work on it, that's why I needed some feedback. But thank you for your feedback, I might consider implementing a Light/Dark mode.

Looks good to me. Can't spot anything wrong with it.

Here is some feedback.Don't overuse gradients and use accordingly.

Work on your text placement, make use of the open space.

Buy/Sell looks like it's intended for mobile when it's not.

Always check your alignment.

Work on your layout.

From a design standpoint, it needs a lot of work.

From a design standpoint, it needs a lot of work. It is intended for all devices, as the page is responsive, but besides that. Thank you for your constructive feedback, I will work on the things you listed in your reply. In terms of the layout, what exactly could I improve in that area?

For starters, halve the width of Buy/Sell and extend width of graph.

Thank you, I already have a similar layout for the Dashboard page, and I was worried it would look too similar, so I tried with some variety. I will work on the improvements you suggested, and see if I can come up with a different layout.
