Thread: Students, what have you been up to during these troubling times?

Canadian - March 30, 2020, 5:27 pm

Mostly slacking off and home exercises. Really contemplating finishing my master's degree. This online and indoor shit has got me fucked up. It's not too bad, but the very act of commuting to school and having physical classes did so much for my productivity. I did not realize until now.

Literally haven't done any school work and I could guarantee you that it is piling up as we speak.

Troubling days?

You mean smoking weed all day and chilling on the couch.

Doesn't sound terrible.

A + - March 31, 2020, 4:02 pm

All that I can tell you is that alcohol is a solution.

Net - March 31, 2020, 4:10 pm

Only have online classes 2 times a week, so I have A LOT of spare time.

I mostly do CPA and videos in my spare time.

Have you felt that the online environment has negatively impacted your performance? If so, what parts of the online experience? The video quality, the environment, the communication (or lack thereof)?

Crypt - March 31, 2020, 7:45 pm

Still been going to work and my school is now online.

Have you already done with your video buddy?

The Broker - April 1, 2020, 12:43 am

Working from home, thats killing me - so fkn boring.

Studying through PC. I study in the open university, so we don't really have classes, we have HW with dates and an exam to pass, do whatever you want just get good grades and you're graduated.

Not yet, not rushing for my video at the moment, since I do have to prioritize other videos first.

Well people order videos from me for CPA, where they get the views isn't my concern.

And I usually do like 2-5 videos per week.

Oh that's great...how much do you charge them per video?

Depends on what kind of video they're ordering. But usually around 25 - 60$. It is a solid side hustle, nothing too big or stressful.

The fact I don't have to actually present myself anywhere. It might just be me but I'm the kind of guy that wouldn't be able to workout at a home gym.

Why not? The going to the gym part makes you hyped up already I suppose, and at home it's just too comfortable?

That's probably the case. Driving to the gym is half the battle. It's weird and doesn't make any logical sense to me.

I feel you 100%. I'm doing it now, just to maintain some sense of routine and some muscle mass. Otherwise, fuck home workouts (except core, I can't be bothered to do that at the gym).

It makes sense though. Your home is associated with comfort. As much as I love the gym, it's not the most comfortable place to be, quite the opposite 99% of the time. Home's a treat

Going to the gym has this psychological thing unno. You don't need to go through it with home workouts. It feels too optional whereas in reality they're both very much choices we make.

I thought I'd like the whole working from home, but fuck it's not for me. I usually do my assignments/readings at home, but I need everything else functioning for me to focus on doing this part. If that makes any sense
