Thread: Feedback on my first thread design

Hi!

I just finished designing my first thread design and I would really appreciate some tips or pointers regarding the design! :)

Spoiler (Click to View)

Took a bit of inspiration from Nirys Designs, as I really enjoyed his work.

I like the feature at the top, the white on navy blue stands out. The overall design is clean too. The font used is clearly legible and the titles are visible to the eye over the bullet point statements below them.

There's a little too much space between the lines of text and alignment can be improved along with making the blue gradients less prominent between sections. Doing some of those little tweaks will help with the flow a lot! Also, make spacing for bullet points even throughout. Keep titles the same capitalization and don't have half capitalized and the other half not.

The background is really nice, make the elements stand out a tad more though, you've put work into it and it should be appreciated.

For your first thread design attempt I'd say it's really good, keep it up. Way better than when I first started out in Graphic Design professionally.

Looks professional but IMO there's too much text. Maybe try balancing it out by adding some icons for maybe payment and such?

7.5/10

Make section titles larger or bold maybe?
