Thread: iPhone and iPad iOS 13.x dont know password but know iCloud account

dingnimeifui - April 7, 2020, 4:56 am

Hey guys. I don't know if you could help me but let s try !

I recently got an iPhone XR and an iPad 2019, both on some iOS 13.x
I could explain how I got those, but you wouldn't believe me. (Family)
I know the iCloud password and they are both on the same iCloud account, unfortunately I don't know the password of those devices.
I have to access those to get some docs (future house plan primarily).

Is there any jailbreak or other thing to bypass that password ? I can't take the risk to restore and recover because I am not sure if the auto sync on iCloud is On.

Could anyone help ? Thanks

there are big company's built building tools to access iphone files without the password.
those tools are really hard to get and sold only to country's

You don't listen to this person.. holy frick.

You can take yourself and the owner/family member to the AMAC store, they will remove the password requirement off your special IMEI number.
Thus unlocking it on the spot for you, if you can show you are the owner or the owner is with you with the receipt.

They aren't wrong though. There are plenty of commercial vendors that sell iPhone exploits allowing file access. The only thing is you personally can't buy them and probably couldn't afford to do so even if you found a vendor willing to break laws and sell to you personally.

Thanks for your answer

Actually the problem is that the owner has died...

I have every bill, the box, everything but I can't ask for help in a Apple Store. I read that if I prove them the owner has died, they can erase everything and unlock it. But I don't care about the phone and the iPad I just want what's inside...
