Now I know the title sounds real messed up, but this kid was bigger than me. He was about 6'3 230/240lbs. Big kid but it was some local idiot in my hood who was always up to nonsense just acting dumb and people never told him anything because he was autistic. One time he ran over a neighbors cat "accidentally." He's also vandalized stop signs and stuff on my street. I was sick and tired of this fat retarded kid.

I confronted him last night when I was on a run in my neighborhood. It was about 8 PM and he just stares at me while running past him. I make eye contact and he gives me the finger. I go and tell the kid whats up why he just disrespected me like that. He tries to walk away but I get in his face since I was real heated. He then pushes me and tries to punch me. So long story short, I double legged him on the ground and punched him a solid 8 times in the face. His nose was bloody and probably black eye. I ended up dipping from the scene.

I was tweaking out over cops coming and arresting me. But I hit him several blocks away near a forest part of my neighborhood where no houses are around. Plus the kid doesn't personally know me and I was in very concealing clothing.

Truth is I don't feel bad. I know the kid has an issue but it's not like he's full blown autistic. He's probably 19-20 so he is an adult. He's more aspergers but he uses it to his advantage and he clearly knows what he's doing. He's always harassing kids in the neighborhood and cops never do shiit because he's fuking retarded. I really did hurt the kid bad but I feel contempt at the same time to. Kid was a straight bully to anyone smaller than him.

Yin Yang - April 7, 2020, 6:59 am

What do you mean by "concealing clothing."?

I think I would feel a little bad about it no matter the person, but sounds like you just gave him what was coming for him eventually.

Good job, he might even have learned a lesson

Autism is an excuse to throw a fit, perhaps, but not to be a bully. I've been autistic my whole life and aside from a few situations where I hurt someone's feelings with my words without meaning to, I've never bullied anyone. Plenty of people have their own problems, but that's not an excuse for hurting others. To that end, I'm reading original post as nothing more than the story of a victim getting back at their bully and I applaud those kinds of stories.

OP, why the fuck did you hit me so hard?? I am just a retard who doesn't know any better? My mom had to wash my jeans today because of you and she was mad at me!

Nah bro, I don't really care for people who pull stunts like this and then brag about it online. I hope this is troll.

I guess you should have avoided him the very best you can...he got a disorders that make him the way he act.

Don't you have any guilty feelings inside you after beating that dumb ass bully retarded kid?
