Thread: Council zoom call interrupted with 'adult content'

bevc - April 10, 2020, 12:17 am

This is a hack forum, so I thought I'd post this, it had me laughing my arse off.

<https://www.somersetlive.co.uk/news/somerset-news/adult-content-zoom-council-meeting-4032737>

"Several users dialled in with adult-themed nicknames - including 'Ben Dover' and 'Mike Coxlong' - with swear words being directed at a member of council staff."

"And one user shared an image of two men kissing in the middle of a presentation of improvements planned for one of Yeovil's roundabouts."

Theocritus - April 10, 2020, 12:25 am perfect, life is good people

Dark - April 10, 2020, 12:29 am

two men kissing? please tell me it was the photo

Exposed74 - April 10, 2020, 2:43 pm

Not much hack involved.

They might be lacking a "young" counselor to manage their zoom meetings

Classic Zoom pranks. Funny how anyone can join if you have the meeting id.

Social Engineer - April 10, 2020, 9:13 pm

Didnt watch, but these Zoom pranks are hilarious.

This is some funny stuff. The modern age prank call lmao.

CashInTheBag - April 11, 2020, 12:29 am thats what you get for using zoom! lol. hate that user data mining company.

Scooby - April 11, 2020, 10:19 am

I had never heard of Zoom before Covid19 but now its issues are all I hear about lol.

I'd heard of it, work people were always saying shizz to me like "we should have a Zoom call" (I always worked from home), and I was like, yeah, not gonna happen. I've still never used it.

This is hilarious. There has been so many issues with zoom lately. A lot of people have been using it for school and it has been recently brought up with all of the security flaws it has. Most classes have the zooms classes password protected. Hopefully they figure out the security issues!

Hahahaha. Made my day. Zoom is under massive scrutiny now. I don't know if there is going to be a day when they would be able to regain the trust of the public. I was supposed to go for a job interview next week and had already had Zoom invites in my email. It was immediately changed to Hangouts thanks to the issue Zoom is facing.

Pow3r - April 11, 2020, 12:27 pm

This was inevitable at some stage. It was always going to happen and it was always going to be fucking hilarious haha.

Disease - April 11, 2020, 12:32 pm

Ugh, this sort of crap has been happening all over the place. When permissions on these meetings are set up in a way that viewers can chat/speak, or have their names announced, this sort of abuse is inevitable. There are people out there that grow a pair of balls when they can hide behind anonymity, and do stupid things like this.

Lakai - April 11, 2020, 12:34 pm

I feel bad for the people actually trying to learn with zoom, but otherwise this is hilarious lol

?ystem - April 11, 2020, 5:36 pm

I don't know, maybe it's because as of recently I have had to rely on using Zoom's services to get any real work done throughout the week, including my recovery meetings. So I just don't find it all too funny that people are doing this, and I've heard of many meetings that were just assaulted with inappropriate imagery for some childish lulz.

Yeah but all it takes is one snitch to give the password to someone else and boom

I didn't check if there were real security flaws revealed, but i guess, most guys joining rooms they are not supposed to join are just people provided with links/pw (and i think it's something a teen would find funny to share it the the whole class get trolled), or because rooms are not set up correctly.

Mistakes happen. I just saw recently a video of teacher doing her presentation and in the meantime one of the kids go in the bathroom with the laptop and forgot to turn the camera off, it was hilarious. But the most weird thing is that nobody didn't even bother to say to her "what are you doing?" or even tried to tell her to turn off her camera, I guess everybody was enjoying the laugh. Once she realized what's going on she completely closed her laptop to stop from being embarrassed. Btw no nudes have been showed so it's good.

One of the most terrible platforms of all time. I have no idea why people decided to choose Zoom over any other online platform for presentations and such as there are tons of alternatives.

Geralt - April 11, 2020, 8:02 pm

Watch some Nelk videos. They interrupt online classes, shit is hilarious.
