Thread: Colour Scheme For Bedroom

Olympus - April 10, 2020, 5:15 pm

Hey guys i'm about to revamp my room and make it more homey feeling as it is due for some love.

I'm thinking of going with a light grey for the walls and white blinds / window skirting and a white ceiling with white corners/windows.

What do you guys think got any recommendations? ? It's a fairly small room, so i can't really go to dark as it will make it feel cramped. I'm getting all new furniture as well to go with it. Just don't really have any influence on any designs but i have seen grey in rooms before and i quite like it. Cheers in advance.

Eh i think i'll pass on the yellow haha! Cheers for the opinion though.

Cyam - April 10, 2020, 6:16 pm

Just make it black and white. I really like that scheme.

There's a website that's primarily used for web design color schemes, but you can find some great neutral colors that match together on Coolors.io

This is one that I find pretty nice for a bedroom:

Cheers mate i intend to turn my bedroom into a more of a work space. Going to have a big corner desk wrapped around and going to do some shelving in that wardrobe. The plan is turn into a office/bedroom so that way every time i enter my bedroom i get into a creative mindset and not have any limitations!

Perhaps some bed sheets would add some color?
Just an idea.

Let us know what you end up doing- great suggestions are already given

Social Engineer - April 10, 2020, 9:12 pm

Teal for the wall with the window, and the rest white.

SIM-3257834 - April 10, 2020, 9:16 pm

Paint the walls black and board up the windows.

agreed. simple and classy.

Theocritus - April 11, 2020, 3:21 am light grey could be alright, and some white is probably fine. but i believe an all-white room is not good for your mental health for one reason or another

?ystem - April 11, 2020, 3:29 am

Hmm. I like it! Originally I was going to suggest a slightly darker color so as to create a more "warm" feeling to the room but you explained why it's not too good an idea. You have to let us know when you're done and take some before and after photos!

No offense meant but I honestly got a feeling of disgust when imagining my room being those colors... You really ought to work on getting that changed sometime relatively soon.

Luca - April 11, 2020, 3:33 am

Make the yellow blinds-walls and the pale white.

The Broker - April 11, 2020, 3:54 am

woah chill bedroom you've got buddy

Pow3r - April 11, 2020, 4:43 am

OP has learnt the hard way that the Lounge is not the place to ask for serious advice hahaha. Keep it light, bright and clean would be my advice OP if you're going to use it mainly for working in.

Stevensan - April 11, 2020, 2:08 pm

I'm moving to a new house. I'm going to paint the walls white. I don't like other colors.

Tom Law - December 30, 2023, 8:42 am

Light green should fit just right
What in thearnation?

hayesh - January 2, 2024, 3:34 pm

im such a boring plain person that id say stick with the light colors

Monero-chan - January 2, 2024, 6:03 pm

dude dug up a thread from 2020
