

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: Audiobooks

Pow3r - April 11, 2020, 4:14 pm

Hey HF

Anyone listen to audiobooks? If so what sort of things do you go for? I've been going through some Tolkien lately, usually before bed and am looking for a few more ideas to expand my listening. I am open to new suggestions.

Thanks guys.

Cyam - April 11, 2020, 4:18 pm

To be honest I've never listened to an audio book before as I'm still kinda old-fashioned and I'd rather go for paper book. What is your experience with audio books? Do you prefer them over paper books or?

Blogger - April 11, 2020, 4:18 pm

(Apr 11, 2020 04:14 PM)Pow3r Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Hey HF

Anyone listen to audiobooks? If so what sort of things do you go for? I've been going through some Tolkien lately, usually before bed and am looking for a few more ideas to expand my listening. I am open to new suggestions.

Thanks guys.

I can't do audiobooks yet. It's slower than I would read so it takes three times as long. I just got into podcasts though, hoping that will help me get into audiobooks. I would love to listen to Mitch Albom or something along those lines.

?ystem - April 11, 2020, 4:21 pm

I probably haven't listened to an audiobook since 2015. I don't know, I just never really got into them, I much prefer the regular ol' book.

Pow3r - April 11, 2020, 4:21 pm

(Apr 11, 2020 04:18 PM)Yung Gravy Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) To be honest I've never listened to an audio book before as I'm still kinda old-fashioned and I'd rather go for paper book. What is your experience with audio books? Do you prefer them over paper books or?

No I actually love reading real books, the older the better actually! I just find an audio book is a nice way to lay back and drift off into whatever world you are reading about. It's almost like a hybrid of a movie and a book to me as you get to listen to someone weave the story and the plot but you of course can't see it.

(Apr 11, 2020 04:18 PM)Blogger Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I can't do audiobooks yet. It's slower than I would read so it takes three times as long. I just got into podcasts though, hoping that will help me get into audiobooks. I would love to listen to Mitch Albom or something along those lines.

Oddly enough I also got into Podcasts and went to studio books from there! Give some of your favorites a try, it's a new way to enjoy them.

(Apr 11, 2020 04:21 PM)?ystem Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I probably haven't listened to an audiobook since 2015. I don't know, I just never really got into them, I much prefer the regular ol' book.

I like both for different reasons but yes I can't imagine not reading an actual book. If I had to choose then I'd stick with regular books.

Disease - April 11, 2020, 4:26 pm

(Apr 11, 2020 04:14 PM)Pow3r Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Hey HF

Anyone listen to audiobooks? If so what sort of things do you go for? I've been going through some Tolkien lately, usually before bed and am looking for a few more ideas to expand my listening. I am open to new suggestions.

Thanks guys.

Once in a blue moon I'll pick up an audio book and listen to it on the my way work. Usually only if I am just going hard on a book and I don't want to put it down. I find it difficult to set aside much time to just read a novel. So when I do, I need to earnestly try to get through it, else it'll fall by the wayside. That's where audiobooks help. I can read at night, before bed. And then get another 40mins of listening in to and from work.

If you like Tolkien you might consider giving H.P. Lovecraft a shot. Most of his work consists of short stories. But they center around a recurring mythos, so it's still very engaging.

Pow3r - April 11, 2020, 4:28 pm

(Apr 11, 2020 04:26 PM)Disease Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Once in a blue moon I'll pick up an audio book and listen to it on the my way work. Usually only if I am just going hard on a book and I don't want to put it down. I find it difficult to set aside much time to just read a novel. So when I do, I need to earnestly try to get through it, else it'll fall by the wayside. That's where audiobooks help. I can read at night, before bed. And then get another 40mins of listening in to and from work.

If you like Tolkien you might consider giving H.P. Lovecraft a shot. Most of his work consists of short stories. But they center around a recurring mythos, so it's still very engaging.

Sounds very similar to myself. Thank you, I'll take a look through some titles and give them a whirl.

Sick - April 11, 2020, 4:33 pm

(Apr 11, 2020 04:14 PM)Pow3r Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Hey HF

Anyone listen to audiobooks? If so what sort of things do you go for? I've been going through some Tolkien lately, usually before bed and am looking for a few more ideas to expand my listening. I am open to new suggestions.

Thanks guys.

Yes now and again i love to listen to an audio book I normally listen to a guy called Lee Child he writes about a guy called Jack Reacher those audio books are very good listening to also a guy called Jack Higgins that is some very good listening as well .. That's the only 2 i listen to

I also like to read a few books as well hardbacks again Lee Child,Jack Higgins,Chris Ryan,Andy McNab the last 2 are SAS type authors very good ?

jfm-8 - April 11, 2020, 8:17 pm

I listen to one once in a while but now resorted to actually reading books as i want some time away from my phone and laptop.

Yin Yang - April 11, 2020, 8:37 pm

I never gave them a try but would also like to hear some options to give a try

de_g3ntl3m4n - April 11, 2020, 8:39 pm

Havent really used audio books before but hey have been using them? i dont know man feel like it can be kinda of nice when you would go outside though. Feel like it would be good to listen to some audio boook when youre on a bench sitting at a park or something instead of music its an audio book

Pow3r - April 12, 2020, 1:22 am

(Apr 11, 2020 04:33 PM)Sick Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Yes now and again i love to listen to an audio book I normally listen to a guy called Lee Child he writes about a guy called Jack Reacher those audio books are very good listening to also a guy called Jack Higgins that is some very good listening as well .. That's the only 2 i listen to

I also like to read a few books as well hardbacks again Lee Child,Jack Higgins,Chris Ryan,Andy Mcnab the last 2 are SAS type authors very good ?

Excellent, thank you. I'm familiar with the authors but haven't heard their audio versions. I'll give them a try. Thanks.

(Apr 11, 2020 08:17 PM)jfm-8 Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I listen to one once in a while but now resorted to actually reading books as i want some time away from my phone and laptop.

This is understandable as well. I personally love an actual book also.

The Broker - April 12, 2020, 1:31 am

I actually don't understand people that are reading story books or fiction and other waste of time books, just put Netlifix on.

I read & listen, productivity books mostly.

Dorrance - April 12, 2020, 1:47 am

Actually I was thinking about starting to listen to them thru the day tbh so learning and working same time just like listening to music.

Pow3r - April 12, 2020, 1:48 am

(Apr 12, 2020 01:31 AM)The Broker Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I actually don't understand people that are reading story books or fiction and other waste of time books, just put Netlifix on.

I read & listen, productivity books mostly.

Netflix will never replace the feeling of s real book or audio book to me. The latter gives you the chance to closer your eyes and just relax and fall into the world of the book you're reading. Each to their own though I suppose. Thanks for your input though, helps to get a balanced view on the thread and different opinions.

Sick - April 12, 2020, 2:01 am

(Apr 12, 2020 01:22 AM)Pow3r Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Excellent, thank you. I'm familiar with the authors but haven't heard their audio versions. I'll give them a try. Thanks.

This is understandable as well. I personally love an actual book also.

You will like the Lee child ones the person who does the voice on the audio book is really good reminds me of a young Clint Eastwood

Infact i might even listen to one today after i get all my washing done and housework . ?

Luca - April 12, 2020, 2:21 am

No but I'm thinking of trying them out. They seem like a good way to pass time

Sick - April 12, 2020, 2:34 am

(Apr 12, 2020 02:21 AM)Luca Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) No but I'm thinking of trying them out. They seem like a good way to pass time
Honestly try one mate very nice just to lay back and chill there very pleasant to the ear . Sometimes i even put one on in the car if i'm travelling a good distance you will be very surprised on how good they are to listen to .. ?

ningjingdexiatian - April 12, 2020, 2:39 am

(Apr 12, 2020 02:21 AM)Luca Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) No but I'm thinking of trying them out. They seem like a good way to pass time

Especially for those whose voices are so conducive to making me fall asleep. ?

Pow3r - April 12, 2020, 3:00 am

(Apr 12, 2020 02:01 AM)Sick Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) You will like the Lee child ones the person who does the voice on the audio book is really good reminds me of a young Clint Eastwood

Infact i might even listen to one today after i get all my washing done and housework . ?

Thanks I'll give them a try. I agree that a good voice makes a huge difference to the enjoyment.

(Apr 12, 2020 02:39 AM)ningjingdexiatian Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Especially for those whose voices are so conducive to making me fall asleep. ?

It does actually make you way more relaxed and helps get you off to sleep. That's what I've found anyway.

ningjingdexiatian - April 12, 2020, 3:14 am

(Apr 12, 2020 03:00 AM)Pow3r Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) It does actually make you way more relaxed and helps get you off to sleep. That's what I've found anyway.

Aye! Also depends on the tonality and genre of the person reading for me. :)

Rob - April 12, 2020, 3:31 am

There's a great range of books to listen to, you can try the best seller lists on Audible to find something or depending on what you enjoy you could try listening to some business books to get a better understanding of that field or some motivation books to try lift your spirits.

Fortunate - April 12, 2020, 4:25 am

I would like to read some books but I'm too lazy to do so, but I've never even tried audiobooks. Maybe I should give them a try.

Pow3r - April 12, 2020, 5:00 am

(Apr 12, 2020 04:25 AM)Fortunate Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I would like to read some books but I'm too lazy to do so, but I've never even tried audiobooks. Maybe I should give them a try.

They sound like they could be ideal for you, you just plug in and listen haha.

no_one - April 12, 2020, 5:00 am

No, I find audiobooks very, very boring

Pow3r - April 12, 2020, 5:01 am

(Apr 12, 2020 03:14 AM)ningjingdexiatian Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Aye! Also depends on the tonality and genre of the person reading for me. :)

Indeed. Stephen Fry reading Harry Potter I could suggest for relaxation. He has a velvet like voice that you can easily drop off to.

(Apr 12, 2020 05:00 AM)no_one Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) No, I find audiobooks very, very boring
Well they aren't for everyone clearly. Everyone has their own idea of relaxation and entertainment ?

Scooby - April 12, 2020, 5:22 am

(Apr 12, 2020 05:01 AM)Pow3r Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Indeed. Stephen Fry reading Harry Potter I could suggest for relaxation. He has a velvet like voice that you can easily drop off to.

Stephen Fry is one of my favorite narrators. His collection of Sherlock Holmes cases is fantastic! Steven Weber is also fantastic. I love audiobooks and listen to them quite often. Some of my favorites are actually multicast, like The Godfather. It's read as a book, but each character's dialogue is read by a different voice. It's one of my favorite audiobooks and I highly recommend it.

Cyam - April 12, 2020, 5:27 am

(Apr 12, 2020 05:00 AM)no_one Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) No, I find audiobooks very, very boring May I ask why?

Pow3r - April 12, 2020, 5:27 am

(Apr 12, 2020 05:22 AM)Scooby Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Stephen Fry is one of my favorite narrators. His collection of Sherlock Holmes cases is fantastic! Steven Weber is also fantastic. I love audiobooks and listen to them quite often. Some of my favorites are actually multicast, like The Godfather. It's read as a book, but each character's dialogue is read by a different voice. It's one of my favorite audiobooks and I highly recommend it.

Ah Sherlock Holmes! I never thought of that. Thank you, I'll be giving those a go for sure. I'll look into some of the others as well. Thanks.

ven0m - April 12, 2020, 5:31 am

I mostly use them for novels and fictions. Usually, I choose which I can understand and enjoy while driving or commuting. What is your best source for audiobooks other than Audible?

(Apr 12, 2020 05:27 AM)Pow3r Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Ah Sherlock Holmes! I never thought of that. Thank you, I'll be giving those a go for sure. I'll look into some of the others as well. Thanks.

Stephen Fry's baritone voice matches with the Jeremy Brett era of Sherlock Holmes. A good treat for the ears, I must say.

Pow3r - April 12, 2020, 5:40 am

(Apr 12, 2020 05:31 AM)ven0m Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I mostly use them for novels and fictions. Usually, I choose which I can understand and enjoy while driving or commuting. What is your best source for audiobooks other than Audible?

Stephen Fry's baritone voice matches with the Jeremy Brett era of Sherlock Holmes. A good treat for the ears, I must say.

I have had a few sent to me by friends but other than Audible take a look at Librivox, Kobo and Google's Audiobooks. Each have pros and cons. You can also find many good titles on torrent sites I imagine but I'm not a torrent fan so.

Scooby - April 12, 2020, 5:49 am

(Apr 12, 2020 05:31 AM)ven0m Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) What is your best source for audiobooks other than Audible?

(Apr 12, 2020 05:40 AM)Pow3r Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I have had a few sent to me by friends but other than Audible take a look at Librivox, Kobo and Google's Audiobooks. Each have pros and cons. You can also find many good titles on torrent sites I imagine but I'm not a torrent fan so.

For what it's worth, I recently switched from Audible to Scribd. Its library obviously isn't quite as robust as Audible's but I find it satisfactory so far. It's also subscription based like Netflix rather than credits like Audible. And it has ebooks as well.

Pow3r - April 12, 2020, 5:50 am

(Apr 12, 2020 05:49 AM)Scooby Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) For what it's worth, I recently switched from audible to Scribd. Its library obviously isn't quite as robust as audible's but I find it satisfactory so far. It's also subscription based like Netflix rather than credits like audible. And it has ebooks as well.

Hmm interesting. I'll take a good look at this now I think. Thank you.

ven0m - April 12, 2020, 5:52 am

(Apr 12, 2020 05:49 AM)Scooby Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) For what it's worth, I recently switched from audible to Scribd. Its library obviously isn't quite as robust as audible's but I find it satisfactory so far. It's also subscription based like Netflix rather than credits like audible. And it has ebooks as well.

Thank you for the information. I will check it out.

Pow3r - April 12, 2020, 5:53 am

(Apr 12, 2020 05:52 AM)ven0m Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Thank you for the information. I will check it out.

No problem. Scooby just dropped another option above as well that I am going to take a look at also.

no_one - April 12, 2020, 6:57 am

(Apr 12, 2020 05:27 AM)Yung Gravy Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) May I ask why?

'cause frequently the person who reads have a very monotone voice. I like to read in my own rhythm and underline some quotes.

WinklerConnect - April 12, 2020, 7:11 am

You can get free audiobooks from piratebay

Pow3r - April 12, 2020, 7:18 am

(Apr 12, 2020 07:11 AM)WinklerConnect Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) You can get free audiobooks from piratebay I had also heard this but I personally avoid torrents of all kinds. Each to their own though.

Snory - April 14, 2020, 7:19 am

(Apr 11, 2020 04:18 PM)Blogger Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I can't do audiobooks yet. It's slower than I would read so it takes three times as long. I just got into podcasts though, hoping that will help me get into audiobooks. I would love to listen to Mitch Albom or something along those lines.

You could listen on a 1.5x fast forward. I will do this if it's a slow narrator.

(Apr 12, 2020 02:01 AM)Sick Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) You will like the Lee child ones the person who does the voice on the audio book is really good reminds me of a young Clint Eastwood

Infact i might even listen to one today after i get all my washing done and housework . ?

I've listened to some of the Reacher books and I really like the narrator, I was just thinking yesterday about how I dont know what the word staccato that he always uses means, had to google.

Ash Ketchum - April 14, 2020, 7:32 am

I use to listen to the ones on Spotify about serial killers jack the ripper etc but haven't actively listened to any recently I don't find myself drawn to a lot of them anymore.

Scooby - April 14, 2020, 7:47 am

For anyone interested, there is also a company called Graphic Audio whose tagline is "A Movie In Your Mind." They do a whole bunch of different series that play out like a multicast audiobook. I highly recommend them and the Nekropolis and Ghostfinders series in particular.

The-Fluffy-Kitty - April 14, 2020, 7:51 am

I don't always do audiobooks, but I have quite a few ebooks on my phone (pdf, epub, etc.) and I use an app called @Voice Aloud Reader that reads them to me in a robot voice.

Not always the best, but it works for me.

Pow3r - April 14, 2020, 8:03 am

(Apr 14, 2020 07:47 AM)Scooby Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) For anyone interested, there is also a company called Graphic Audio whose tagline is "A Movie In Your Mind." They do a whole bunch of different series that play out like a multicast audiobook. I highly recommend them and the Nekropolis and Ghostfinders series in particular.

Now this could be of interest to me. Thank you.

Donace - April 14, 2020, 10:13 am

I never actually tried audiobooks. It just feels so different, and I'm always afraid of falling asleep as my regular reading hours is at bedtime.

V?rt - April 14, 2020, 10:29 am

I haven't in the past, but it just might be a thing that I'll start doing. I have a few books that I have been wanting to read, but I don't have the time to sit down and read them, so I might be able to start listening to them while I travel.

Pow3r - April 14, 2020, 12:44 pm

(Apr 14, 2020 10:29 AM)V?rt Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I haven't in the past, but it just might be a thing that I'll start doing. I have a few books that I have been wanting to read, but I don't have the time to sit down and read them, so I might be able to start listening to them while I travel.

Sounds like an ideal situation for you you to dive into some audiobooks. Travel goes by much better.

Ivex - April 14, 2020, 12:45 pm

I like audio books.

Just finished the Subtle Art of not Giving a F*.

Pow3r - April 14, 2020, 12:47 pm

(Apr 14, 2020 12:45 PM)Ivex Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I like audio books.

Just finished the Subtle Art of not Giving a F*.

I have seen that book and a few others of a similar ilk in Waterstones. Always makes me smile lol.