

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: [\[Brave Browser\] Downloading Multiple Files from Same Host](#)

SaintJimmy - April 12, 2020, 11:06 pm

This tutorial shows you how to download multiple files from same hoster for free (yes) by using Brave Browser.

Download and install the browser.

Once installed open Brave Browser and press Alt + Shift + N.

This will start a private window that uses Tor integration.

This in turn hides your real ip and uses a onion router ip in that window.

If the window says No Internet, point your cursor to the button in the right upper corner of the window and select New Tor Connection For This Site.

After the file begin to download open a new private window using the plus signal, write the second file to download and hit enter to open.

Then press New Tor Connection For This Site.

Repeat this for all the files to download.

Rsynced - April 18, 2020, 8:30 am

(Apr 12, 2020 11:06 PM)SaintJimmy Wrote: CITE This tutorial shows you how to download multiple files from same hoster for free (yes) by using Brave Browser.

Download and install the browser.

Once installed open Brave Browser and press Alt + Shift + N.

This will start a private window that uses Tor integration.

This in turn hides your real ip and uses a onion router ip in that window.

If the window says No Internet, point your cursor to the button in the right upper corner of the window and select New Tor Connection For This Site.

After the file begin to download open a new private window using the plus signal, write the second file to download and hit enter to open.

Then press New Tor Connection For This Site.

Repeat this for all the files to download.

Thanks, this works great! ?

SaintJimmy - April 18, 2020, 8:36 am

(Apr 18, 2020 08:30 AM)Rsyntax Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Thanks, this works great! ?

Glad to know that I was able to help someone. While I'm not a frequent brave user (except on PC; downloading torrents) and my laptop has Chrome OS so does my PC.

Rsyntax - April 18, 2020, 8:39 am

(Apr 18, 2020 08:36 AM)SaintJimmy Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Glad to know that I was able to help someone. While I'm not a frequent brave user (except on PC; downloading torrents) and my laptop has Chrome OS so does my PC.

I try to only use brave browser and have made over 100 BAT.

On a side note, TOR downloads can be very slow. This method is great for file lockers with daily bandwidth speed/downloads per day caps though...

Btw, how are those chrome books? Seem kinda limited?

SaintJimmy - April 18, 2020, 8:45 am

(Apr 18, 2020 08:39 AM)Rsyntax Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I try to only use brave browser and have made over 100 BAT.

On a side note, TOR downloads can be very slow. This method is great for file lockers with daily bandwidth speed/downloads per day caps though...

Btw, how are those chrome books? Seem kinda limited?

Nice amount of BAT you have made there. I think there was an ad in Omni's sig a while ago to encourage people for using brave.

Chrome books are nice but limited in a lot of ways. The Chrome store doesn't have a lot of apps. They are good for browsing internet and web based apps. You get the common plethora of apps for doc viewing, customisation, image manipulation, YouTube and music. Nothing more though. I had bought mine for 700 euros on 2016. Still running without any hiccups.

Rsyntax - April 18, 2020, 8:49 am

Have you looked at this?

<https://support.google.com/chromebook/answer/9145439>

or this?

<https://www.ubuntupit.com/easily-install-linux-on-chromebook/>

SaintJimmy - April 18, 2020, 8:56 am

(Apr 18, 2020 08:49 AM)Rsyntax Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Have you looked at this?

<https://support.google.com/chromebook/answer/9145439>

or this?

<https://www.ubuntupit.com/easily-install-linux-on-chromebook/>

Not yet. A friend once told me about it. Lrrr has been bothering me (weeks ago) to get Linux. Might need to stop being lazy and actually this a try. I used to have Ubuntu on my PC. Might as well try this as well. Don't have much experience with Sandbox but it seems like a good 'learn as you go'.

Rsynced - April 18, 2020, 9:22 am

(Apr 18, 2020 08:56 AM)SaintJimmy Wrote: CITE Not yet. A friend once told me about it. Lrrr has been bothering me (weeks ago) to get Linux. Might need to stop being lazy and actually this a try. I used to have Ubuntu on my PC. Might as well try this as well. Don't have much experience with Sandbox but it seems like a good 'learn as you go'.

I am on Linux Mint, love it!

Also you could be using brave browser on your chrome os, it's in the play store.

nanx - April 21, 2020, 10:26 am

Its fine i guess will try it .. Nicere