Whats your thoughts on these sellers selling guides etc for hundreds of dollars ? Just wondering, It seems like the norm on here now but how legit are these people thats the real question

Most of the time it's a waste of money.

Aedan_ - April 13, 2020, 10:11 pm

They're just marketers. Selling their product even if it's bad. They sell it, they make money. shrug

Lol, yeah, this is basically the definition of marketers.

Trash... was disappointed to see the HF marketplace become Warrior Forum/BHW ebook marketplace.

There was a time when ebook related sales on HF were primarily working methods, not some rehashed generic affiliate/dropshipping guide that promises the world.

Most ones being sold are public methods that if you done a 1hour research you will find everything yourself.

Lots of promises of making money, no solid proof... I am tempted but i really doubt their claims

I think it really depends. If nothing new can be found nowadays, it's always about taking something old and adding a spin to it (and in the midst of doing so, "creating value", before off to the marketplace it goes.

Its taking the old stuff and adding a spin to it.

I mean wasnt there a time with social engineering methods were a thing? Now they arent allowed I take it right? You can only get so much money of white/grey hat methods.

Toosii - April 14, 2020, 3:21 am

Most of them are just ponzi schemes that don't work and will more then likely require an investment which you will never get back. My suggestions for you is to either seek mentor ship from someone who is actually making serious money or just invest in to a product/service and on offer in here on HF or other forums and servers.

Duck Duck - April 14, 2020, 3:42 am

Once there was a time on HF where eBooks gave great ideas or the method it self was totally worth the purchase. But paying $200+ is gambling in my opinion. You never know what you will get, and there is people who resell old guides over and over again and label it as something new. Not worth buying one in 2020.

I somehow think that these mentorships that are being sold, could pay off in the long run.

I don't think most of them just want to make a quick buck, however some seem to have some potential though.

NoSuchAgency - April 14, 2020, 3:44 am

I don't think I have ever been satisfied with my purchases of methods or mentoring. I wouldn't really recommend it.

SIM-2263652 - April 14, 2020, 3:56 am

Depends. same are trash some are good. The blackhat/grayhat ones usually work, but arent 100% honest money. Usually if the seller is selling ebooks in bulk and can't offer real mentoring its not going to be good. Limited copies and mentorship are often worth it. Its for you to do your own research.

BubbleKush - April 14, 2020, 7:10 am

All I got to say is - it takes money to make money

This doesn't mean that a method with a high price is a good method crixus - April 14, 2020, 7:14 am all is trash i would rather to learn real skill (SEo, web development etc)
