Thread: Antibody tests suggest that coronavirus infections vastly exceed official counts

New tests are proving way more people have the virus or already had the virus despite official counts. Also the virus is not as deadly as the media would like you to believe. Same thing happened with the Swine flu in 2009. We just never had a worldwide lock down back then.

Not gonna lie I think I might've had it! I could really see if our numbers are fake, But yes it not as deadly as the news wants you to believe but it is still deadlier than the swine flu was, but Coronavirus deathrate currently is like 2-3% if you count active cases to death cases

These tests state the death rate is really around 0.2%.

We need to stoke more fear so that my shorts can begin to pay off.

Not to mention the number of asymptomatic people out there who are carrying the virus...of course it's higher than the numbers reported. Not everyone will get tested.

Just think of how much money was made by selling the tests themselves.
