What about the captchas that come up every now and again does it solve those?

and what does this offer that the free browser extension ones don't apart from the fake typing?

There is no need for anti-captcha, the bot handles this on its own. This bot is fully based on HTTP-requests and will not suck up your system resources by automating a browser.

Stanley - May 20, 2020, 8:27 am

I'm Stanley HF's helper bot. This OP (original poster) of this thread wants everyone to see this page and has elected to bump it to the top of the showthread listing. Since HF doesn't want a ton of LQP (Low Quality Posts) this is the best method of bumping your content. There is a small ?yte fee for each bump. Any OP can bump any of their threads on HF from the linked icon on the top of their first post.

If you haven't already read the first post of this thread we encourage you to do so.

Thanks,
Stanley

Doesn't make sense.. $250 lifetime omegle bot.. But doesn't come with updates or support. So why use the word lifetime? Might as well be "Who knows" cause who knows how long its gonna last.

What doesn't make sense? You pay one-time for a license that doesn't expire, provide your own proxies, and the bot works. It will last as long as Windows supports EXE files.

Not really, if omegle changes one request in the header the bot breaks.
