Thread: you wanted to be a singer but now you are doing some other job ?

Exchanger Boy - April 28, 2020, 2:54 am strange and common that we all used to sing in bathroom . haha ?

and I always think that i sing well even when i am of 26 now , never done any stage show .

well how you guys think on this that you wanted to be something else like A doctor , lawyer , Engineer , footballer or like any but you are doing which doesn't fit into yourself ?

a11s - April 28, 2020, 2:57 am

I wanted to be a rich son of a bitch. (Most likely a successful entrepreneur, not an engineer or doctor)

Took me some years to realize I'm too stupid to ever be successful.

I've accepted that and move on.

did you read through your own thread before posting it?

i almost had a seizure reading this

Lol, this is funny, because I remember when I was about 8 years old I had a friend (Toby, was his name) and I used to tell him I wanted to be a punk rocker when I grew up, and he used to laugh like this was the funniest and weirdest thing in the world, and I could never figure out why, because I thought all kids wanted to be a rock star or a footballer or something.

Yeah mate I wanted to penetrate so many blokes I didn't get around it though.

Exposed74 - April 28, 2020, 3:35 am

I always wanted to be a mamasitter, but it doesn't exist so OOF

MrJamesDean - April 28, 2020, 3:39 am

I always wanted to be an astronaut, and got as far as a boot camp kind of thing and dropped out because we were told it was extremely likely the space program would be closed to all of us due to Obama anyway.

Exchanger Boy - April 28, 2020, 4:32 am its part of life , we always want something else but we get just opposite .

If you realize what you're doing is not your real passion and you cannot keep doing it, you should switch if you can get a living with your new work.

Else, use your free time for your passion without giving up your current job. You need to eat somehow and artistic careers usually take years to pay off.

what if someone says its too late ? you should have done this earlier . now you cant step back .

what you will recommend than friend .

Demize - April 28, 2020, 7:31 am

I wanted to be a professional athlete but I'm uncoordinated

If you feel so much convinced, you can try in any case and possibly succeed, proving they're wrong. I'm sure many famous artists tried anyway and got success.

The point is, are you willing to take the risk? That's the only question you have to answer yourself.

The sure thing is that if your answer is "yes." you have to work much more and harder than everybody else, because you'd have a lot of road to recover.

Without dreaming life would be boring, just go out there hustle and make your dreams come true

Hustling is what I'm doing every single day.

I could make a book with every little thing I tried to make money from.

But I have the habit of going for short term or unscalable methods because I'm too indecisive when I'm thinking about going for long term ones.

The last time I went for a "long term project" was an Amazon affiliate site, but Bezos fucked everyone up on April 21 cutting my niche from 8% to 3% per sale.

So now I'm again without a long term project, hah.

Fugg you, Bezos.

I know I sound terrible that's why I haven't even bothered to try and sing. But to be honest I really didn't had any plan on what to become in my life. It was just whatever floats the boat.

Boil - April 28, 2020, 8:25 am

Hmm.. I don't think I ever sang in the shower.

I pretty much sound tone deaf when I sing so I don't bother
