Thread: [CPA Journey - Updated Daily \[Road To \$50/day\] - \$2,000 in 3 WEEKS!](#)

RIP Juice WRLD - April 28, 2020, 4:06 am

After being out of the CPA game for about 3 years I have decided to return. Back when fidget spinners were a thing, I made about $3,000 in total, where more than $2,000 of those were from just 3 weeks.

In this thread, I will describe what I'm doing day by day, so it's easier to track what's working, and what isn't (for me). I will describe my investments, and how I hope they can help me. I'm hoping to get back to the days where I made more than <$2,000 in 3 weeks, but I don't think it will be possible since fidget spinners back then were the shit.

I am creating this thread on 28/04-2020, but I actually started yesterday, on the 27th. The first day described is the 27th of April, 2020.

Day 1 (8 Clicks, 0 Conversions, $0.00): - Balance: -$5,5

Purchased domain & hosting from Namecheap

Found a great landing page and tweaked it a bit to better fit me

Tested the website, making sure everything worked

Downloaded & edited a Youtube video

Uploaded the video

Made a Twitter account to promote the website

Spent 5,5$ on Youtube views, likes & comments, and Twitter retweets

Day 2 (DAY NOT DONE): - Balance: -$6,55

Set-up a FB Live video, posted on a 5.5k likes meme page + cross-posting to other pages, total potential audience 10k

Spent $1,05 on FB Live Viewers

I'm glad to see more and more people are starting journeys. They really are motivating, not just for the people reading, but for the ones doing them as well.

I'll be following your journey, good luck!

And yeah, I know what you mean man, everything was simpler back then and maybe easier. But we've been out of the game for so long that it's taking a little bit of time to get back with what's changed.
