Thread: Theatre & Acting

Out of curiosity, does any of you do theatre or do you act?

Personally I do and really love it, mainly do theatre shows but have done some auditions for movies.

I'm in a movie that is still in production, however it is a Dutch movie.

I did a super small scale theatre in school. We did Jekyll and Hyde. I was a tree.

Mikeeey69 - April 30, 2020, 9:55 am

I would love to do acting but I am the most nervous person when it comes to anything
How do you get rid of being nervous?

Almonds - April 30, 2020, 10:08 am

I've never done anything - but I do like watching them.

I played in a french movie called Django (It's about the life of Django Reinhart, a famous guitarist). I had no time to keep acting, but I'm thinking about it more and more

You just need to boost your confidence, easy to say but hard to do. Obviously it will come with time, but a little bit of nervousity is always good.

I was going to be a second in a Baywatch clip but I had some other things going on. I think it's cool though. I respect acting and theater.

Demize - April 30, 2020, 10:23 am

I've never done either but I've went to some shows on school field trips that I thought were interesting

I feel you my man. I was there too! What I did perhaps doesn't work for you, but you can try. Because I used to be shy too, I went to a small theatre club and started becoming more expressive.

Nah man I have bad nerves I don't know why, I think there's something wrong now even when I'm driving I'm nervous because I think people are looking at me at a stop light or something it's weird

I don't know any here tbh :(I wish I could stand up in front of people and just be confident I've done it before like security course, school but my nerves destroy me

I was a huge drama nerd in high school. I made a few youtube videos as an adult but I never got into acting like I wanted to. I never wanted to do it for the fame or money it was just the passion for a good film. I'm a huge movie buff and loved my college level Film class.

A lot of good videos!

That's really cool, congrats! I used to do some amateur dramatics at our local theatre but pretty much just because I was trying to get my now fiancée's attention lol. I did find it fun though, and I love improv.

I used to participate in acting in theatre when I was young but later I just said screw it and moved on, even though I was good at it. Didn't really see myself being an actor.

HUGE movie buff but have no interest in acting.

I'm in a movie that is still in production, however it is a Dutch movie.

I never found it interesting. I sleep during plays.

its cool i will be able to tell hahahahaha, but its okay, i dont mind watching international films man dutch or no dutch even if there subtitles or no i dont mind hahah
just let me know

Simplex - May 1, 2020, 1:51 am

I was in Drama class all throughout HS. It was fun, got to just be myself I couldn't see myself doing it though as a career.
