Interesting, well we do know that 2 million chickens were going to be killed

"Farmers in Delaware and Maryland are planning to destroy nearly 2 million chickens because their processing plants have been understaffed since the coronavirus pandemic began."

I wouldn't doubt if this is some kind of insurance scam from struggling farmers.

still less than those chickens who get lynched by finger-licking food chains like KFC yummy delicious chicken

Just like covid, it's all just a scheme to control the people (and the chickens too I guess...)
