

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: [Need advice for WordPress \[WooCommerce\]](#)

NotAPC - May 1, 2020, 1:09 pm

Setting up a wordpress site so local restaurants can setup online ordering.

Which one would be more attractive?

<http://multi.foodonlineplugin.com/demo9daa7701/>

<https://exthemes.net/woocommerce-food/>

I'm leaning towards the first one. Most do not currently deliver.

de_g3ntl3m4n - May 1, 2020, 8:59 pm

Feel like that first one is pretty basic feel like the second one would be more eye appealing. at the same time i would say it depends on what youre selling if its quick products then the first one if its like good look eye appealing then go for second one at the same time feel like the first ones is used at the dominos check out you think?

SaintJimmy - May 1, 2020, 9:10 pm

The first one is more minimal, simple, loads up faster and is a no nonsense design. While on the other hand the second layout is more appealing to the eye, looks professional and gives a good preview of the items as well. It takes a tid bit more seconds to load. It looks more like a proper website with portfolio compared to the first layout which has an application like design.

Sprinkle - May 1, 2020, 10:14 pm

The first one is much more attractive, but the second one is much more fluent. Especially if you could have an easy category selector added tot he second, then it would be an all in one. Can you add appealing images to the second theme? Or in someway actually combine the two? :)

NotAPC - May 1, 2020, 10:49 pm

I myself is stuck between the two. I'm wanting to help local restaurants setup online ordering. And would rather choose one since these are both paid plugins. I prefer the first one since it's more basic and looks very good on mobile as well. Unlike the second one for mobile ordering one item takes up the whole screen. Or if anyone else has a better solution please let me know