Thread: What would your dream job be, if it couldn't be an online one \(such as marketing\)?

RIP Juice WRLD - May 4, 2020, 7:21 am

With an online job, I mean positions like marketing assistant, writer, streamer, YouTuber, etc. - I think you get it.

I'm split between 2.

The first one is social worker, counselor of some kind. Preferably working with young people. I don't know if social worker is the same in English, as it is in Danish, but working with young people who's in trouble, due to bad home conditions etc. Then I could always take it up a notch, and become an abuse counselor (drugs, alcohol counseling).

The second one would be Police Special Forces of some kind, preferably bodyguard or anti-terror. It will require me to get my eyes fixed, though. I know it's nothing like the movies, especially not in the country I reside in. But imagine being the guy putting an end to some nasty fucker, trying to hurt our democracy & freedom.

I've always wanted to do marketing, but fuck, I don't know if I'd be bored after a couple of months. I can't sit still all day.

I'd love to be a Paramedic. Bloody hard job but also very rewarding in knowing you helped save peoples lives.

AevanParker - May 4, 2020, 7:28 am

I would have been a Doctor

Mr.Nobody - May 4, 2020, 7:30 am

I wanted to be commercial pilot

VIXV - May 4, 2020, 7:31 am

Probably a researcher in the field of physics or engineering.

I'd love to be a network technician/engineer in a Data Centre but I don't have guidance and skipped Uni so I feel like I missed my opportunities.

Though I am in a company that I could branch out towards it but they usually look for qualifications.

shitmaster - May 4, 2020, 7:31 am

I would have been a pilot or lawyer if I wasn't this stupid. But yeah, no one gets everything.

This would also be a pretty cool job.

What about the Air Force? Or would you prefer something a little safer?

Exposed74 - May 4, 2020, 7:33 am

I'd either go for a teaching career, or a military career either as fighter or heli pilot, or a K-9, since i love dogs

Can you believe i'm afraid of heights?

Aedan_ - May 4, 2020, 7:36 am

If I had to choose a non-online profession it'd probably be a teacher or a coach.

stupid. But yeah, no one gets everything.

Oooh, I feel ya'.

When I was a lil' kid, my big dream was to be a lawyer. Or an icecream delivery guy.

Man. Ice cream delivery sounds nice. The good ones though. Not like those bad ones in the movie.

Maybe someday buddy!

humanbody - May 4, 2020, 7:58 am

I am already working my dream job. But since it's online this means I have to pick something else. In that case it would be police officer.

Exalted - May 4, 2020, 8:00 am

I guess what I always wanted to be as a kid, a dirty police officer.

Banker - May 4, 2020, 8:04 am

I definitely would have wanted to be an athlete if I wouldn't have been a trader.

Anima - May 4, 2020, 8:08 am

I'd start a non-profit charity for people suffering with mental health for my dream job

Yeah. I imagined. It is something nice. I just ate some ice cream earlier after replying to this thread. Couldn't take it. Haha.

Going to go for a second round.

Be well buddy!

MrJamesDean - May 4, 2020, 9:25 am

I always wanted to be in the military so I suppose that I would go for special forces given the option.

You've given us 2 very specific choices. What if I don't wanna be neither ?

KinGxKeV - May 4, 2020, 10:32 am

I always wanted to be a fish cop cause I think that would be fun as hell

Sprinkle - May 4, 2020, 10:33 am

I would love to be the leader of Mission Trips throughout different countries. Even more ideal would be the ability to do this with someone you love, as it can definitely take you away from your "at home" life

Hero - May 4, 2020, 3:43 pm

Special police forse, because pew pew and badass and stuff.

For real though, i don't know. Probaly traveling for a living. Seeing new countries, new people and seeing stuff you would normally not see.

4dik - May 4, 2020, 3:45 pm

So I was armed forces and I enjoyed it so i would choose being something in a force, like police, firefighter or paramedic. I personally wanted to become a police officer haha

Toosii - May 4, 2020, 3:46 pm

None just owning mass land/properties/businesses

The Don - May 4, 2020, 4:03 pm

I wish I was a successful options trader, those guys make dumb money, and don't leave there seats!

de_g3ntl3m4n - May 5, 2020, 9:45 am i mean if it isnt some online job then i dont know would rather be like some cool scientist engineer or scientist or computer scientist or some cool scientist busniess owner CEO video game developer Cheif tatical team memeber or idk a president is nice too

Demize - May 5, 2020, 9:59 am

I really wanted to do underwater welding but I'm not willing to move out west to do it.

That's so dope!

I actually learned it was possible less than a week ago, because of Money Heist on Netflix.

Off-topic, but big recommendations to that series!

I've been meaning to watch that, but yeah it's dangerous but a good well paying job

funtela - May 5, 2020, 10:11 am

Music or video producer/editor.

Some music genres (mostly movie scores and soundtracks) give me goosebumps like nothing else. I picture scenes in my head (some real / some fantasy) going with the music in certain parts. Makes me want to attempt to create something one day. Something that people can actually FEEL

I used to do fake music videos back in the day, fan-made ones - that was a ton of fun. I can't even imagine how cool it'd be to do it professionally!

That's awesome bro. Was it with hip hop?

Vibe - May 5, 2020, 10:39 am

Owning a pot shop would be a nice job for me imo.

Kant Atta - May 5, 2020, 10:42 am

If it was between those two I would definitely have to pick police. Being a social worker it might sound like you'll be able to help people, but in reality you'll just be subjected to enduring hearing about people's bad lives, while not being able to do a whole lot that actually helps them. Adults is one thing, but when you start having to deal with kids who are being abused by their parents, even if you get them out of that household, what kind of life will they have? Each and every case I dealt with would stick with me, and just build up.

It would be the same being a police officer, but at least you're in a little more control and have more opportunity to actually help people in danger.
