Thread: Ice Cubes or No Ice Cubes

Sprinkle - May 6, 2020, 4:50 pm

I prefer ice in my day to day casual drinking. However if I just went for a jog or do not have a straw, I do not want my throat to freeze or choke on an ice cube. As for my girl, she will NEVER use ice, simply refuses it. I guess that is the European in her.

Anyone else have a specific preference?

Ombra - May 6, 2020, 5:07 pm

I can drink with or without ice, but if I can pick I prefer my Coce or drink to have ice in it, possibly with a slice of lemon/orange too.

Depends what I'm drinking just for water drinking no ice. But for like mixed drinks or iced coffee yes ice :)

Scooby - May 6, 2020, 5:13 pm

No Ice Cubes. Only Dr Dre's, please.

humanbody - May 6, 2020, 5:23 pm

Dont like ice that much but sometimes I like to throw like 1-2 ice cubes in my morning cold nescaffee.

A + - May 6, 2020, 5:29 pm

As long as it's cold already I don't mind. For the most part yeah I usually go for ice.

webdev77 - May 6, 2020, 5:30 pm

I'm not an ice fan. Mixed drinks are fine with ice. Whiskey gets only a large ball or single large cube of ice. Sometimes I'll add ice to water just because but it's not really needed most of the time.

If I'm headed outside, I'd prefer an iced tea or something of the sort. When hitting the gym or working out, I love to guzzle my water without a headache and therefore don't prefer ice. Whiskey MUST have an ice ball

I usually throw one ice cube in my girls drink because it's going to melt regardless. Do you like to chew the ice tho?

True, if I'm casually drinking; why not keep its longevity with some frozen water

IPIKIN - May 6, 2020, 6:42 pm

I prefer to use cooling rocks in my whiskey. The ice melts into it and ruins it.

Ash Ketchum - May 6, 2020, 6:44 pm

It depends on the outside temperature. On hot days you know how it is, but normally I prefer drinks without ice?

Hero - May 7, 2020, 3:49 am

With gin tonic, always ice cubes.

Normal drinks like water or coke: No ice cubes. Depends though.

Simplex - May 7, 2020, 3:50 am

I need ice if my drink isn't cold. I prefer without though because as you finish it gets the drink diluted.

MrJamesDean - May 7, 2020, 3:50 am

Always ice in my drinks, and if it's a soda then a slice of orange or lemon tops it off just nice.

Jake Muller - May 7, 2020, 9:17 am

I don't really care, but if I make the drink myself, I will never add ice cube.

There are ice cubes here in Europe, but not many people prefer them as the weather is often not 'that great' to desire ice cubes.

Frozen all the way. Im trying to make them here at home. They turn out OK, but I tend get way too much tequila and cointreau in them so they get very strong. I played around with limejuice and honey last time though, that went very well, but that time i put too much salt on the glass.. its an ART ?

My dad made some very nice irish coffees last weekend though, only mistake he did was using a whiskey that was VERY smokey, but irish coffee is a great drink.

Hey nothing wrong with a drink that has an extra kick. Tough to get the frozen ratio down, I'd try a million recipes online and be drunk by the time I perfect it.. sounds fun honestly. Salt Rimmer or Sugar?

Smoky whiskey is beautiful, but not sure about it as an addition into coffee

Completely agree here. Nothing better than nothing stopping you from drinking water like a camel

If it comes in a bag, or out a clean freezer I'll have it. Out of an ice machine? Hell no. I've worked in hospitality and I can tel you right now they're absolutely disgusting if not cleaned everyday.

I definitely prefer that my drink has an Icecube or 2 in it, just because I don't want to be drinking something warm. I usually put a couple of water bottles in a freezer most of the time just to cool it down quicker.

Ah, so utilizing ice cubes with intent that they will melt. You ever hear about that remedy of wrapping a wet papertowel around your beer and putting it in the freezer for a few minutes to make it ice cold

Actually yes I have, but I never really tried it before.

I also have not given this a whirl, as my beer is important enough to maintain a designated fridge location

Do you purposely drink luke warm water? If I had to choose one option for life I would choose no ice; but there are times I would miss the opportunity

Maybe rub some lidocaine on your teeth before indulging? Although it might still leave a migraine.. teeth are very sensitive

For sure, especially if it is in a can. I am not the type of guy to get a glass and dump it on some ice... MAYBE if I am headed outside to relax on a beach

Yes they are. The only time I've been able to have cold stuff is after having some work done so they were completely numb.

Ice for coffee & cocktails only, depends on what kind of coffee & cocktail though.

I'll use ice in my drinks under a few conditions such as if I'm looking for a quick caffeine buzz so I'll chill some cups of coffee and slam them down. Otherwise, in general, I don't like to use ice cubes because of how they water down my drinks, so I just always keep my drinks pre-chilled or whatever.

Agree here as well, it is completely differentiable depending upon some circumstances. Also if I have a straw and am casually drinking my water and not gulping for thirst, I do not mind ice

It really just depends on my mood, what the drink is or if its hot or not outside. Typically I don't like ice in my drinks though. Iced Tea though is a must.

Oh of course. Definitely dependent on weather, mood, taste preference, body temp, whether I just worked out, etc. But if you had to pick one or the other for life, which would you choose?
