Thread: How to watch UFC 249?

Swinglow - May 9, 2020, 3:08 pm

Does anyone know where I can watch UFC 249 while being outside of the USA? I paid for the last fight on ESPN+ and it didn't even work for me and again it doesn't seem to work.

Any advice is appreciated

Tony is a beast, really surprised he lost. Glad I didn't bet any money this time.

Bad sportmanship at the end tho, when he pushed his opponent after fight.

It do be like that sometimes. Heat of the moment. We've seen worse for sure, but I never appreciate scenes like that.

Ferguson is a gate keeper now for the division now. It's not that he loss its that he got crushed.

Justin didn't fight the same because of a new trainer that told him he gets hit too much and created a new strategy to beat Tony. In one exchange where Tony got rocked and Justin didn't go in reckless like he usually does to try and finish.

Ferguson should not have taken this fight and should have waited for Khabib. He needs to move up in division now.

Do you know what a gate keeper is in sports? He didn't get crushed, fight was relatively closed but the damage Ferguson took caught up to him to him in the last round.

You don't know anything about sports or MMA if you really consider Ferguson a gate keeper after one loss lmao. A gate keeper is Donald Cerrone for example.

I agree with most of what you said mate, but I'm sorry, Ferguson got absolutely demolished. I was surprised he was so outclassed.
