Thread: I want to migrate to North Korea

Frono - May 12, 2020, 7:35 am

Hello everyone. Before reading this please understand that this is a genuine post. I'm not trying to fool anyone or troll. I'm a citizen of the United States and I want to migrate to North Korea. Sadly everything I find says it's not allowed. I want to learn and enjoy their culture so I can better understand. Spending the rest of my life in North Korea would make me a fuller more richer enlighten person. I looked online everywhere and there just doesn't seem to be a way to be able to successfully move there sadly. I've heard of people in the Army defecating to North Korea but I don't see that being an option for me. The only way I'm thinking about doing anything serious is going on one of these North Korea tours and get in contact with my guide. Maybe I would have to do it from the inside. I want to swear my loyalty to Kim Jung Un. I have nothing going for me in America so at least there I would be able to start a fresh and enjoy a new life. One that most people couldn't imagine. If you guys have anything similar or know of a way to successful migrate to North Korea please let me know I would greatly appreciate it.

4dik - May 12, 2020, 7:38 am

Would you actually be enjoying life poor as fuck. And also being told what you can cannot do everyday.

DrDoof - May 12, 2020, 7:39 am

That's rough buddy, one way to explore their culture from your current home would be to simply not eat for a month

Astrogen - May 12, 2020, 7:44 am

Just stay in the US bud.

You can go there as a tourist, idk if you can get citizenship there though.

?ystem - May 12, 2020, 7:48 am

You said "defecating" instead of "defecting." Toooooootally different words with different meanings.

But I sincerely doubt you would legitimately receive any enlightening knowledge from any amount of time spent there. The country is ruled by a dictator with the most absurd ways of living known to mankind. The people are brainwashed into believing false things regarding their deity, the Un family. If you were granted permission to defect to North Korea, at BEST your life there would be miserable, controlled and impoverished.

Sorry if I'm harsh but, "Migrating to North Korea" is the stupidest thing I've heard. especially if you're a US citizen.

Watch a documentary called VICE Guide to Travel: North Korea. Maybe you'll have some second thoughts.

Simplex - May 12, 2020, 7:52 am

While I don't agree with you I will say that North Korea does have an interesting culture. Personally, I would like to visit North Korea in my lifetime. Migrating there would be a bit much. Wish I could just live there for like a year or two without being treated like a foreigner just as a middle class citizen there.

Deany - May 12, 2020, 7:52 am

Ah yes, this is every Koreaboos wet dream.

MrJamesDean - May 12, 2020, 7:55 am

I think you would do well to read some interviews with those who left, or watch some of the footage of them being liberated and seeing freedom for the first time. It's a horribly controlled country, and I think it would be a severe culture shock. I applaud your commitment either way, but hope you're doing this with the full knowledge of what life would be like.

Neon™ - May 12, 2020, 9:24 am

You haven't even been there as a tourist and you already want to "migrate" there LMAO. Nice troll post tho, I see you (or someone else) already posted it on the North Korea subreddit but it got deleted: https://www.reddit.com/r/northkorea/comments/gib5xt/i_want_to_migrate_to_north_korea/

Big E - May 12, 2020, 9:25 am

You seriously need some kind of mental health evaluation. Please go to see a psychiatrist or a doctor. Admit yourself to an Emergency Room if you have to... your problems are clearly very far gone.

webdev77 - May 12, 2020, 9:26 am

OP you are completely delusional. Might want to find out that the quality of life over there is awful.

And you're almost as crazy as the OP is.

Scooby - May 12, 2020, 9:31 am

Just take a tour there and try to steal a flag. You'll never leave.

sweet pop - May 12, 2020, 9:43 am

Wow, that sure is an interesting take xD I don't share it though lmao. I'll take my freedom any day over that.

Hero - May 13, 2020, 10:17 am

I thought about this too. Imagine going there as a millionaire and you can do whatever you want as long as you invest in NK.

Or imagine creating a offshore hosting there. Who would send DMCA letters to NK? Or shutdown my phishing page?

Yeah thought so. Kim brother, here i coom.

Mr.Nobody - May 13, 2020, 10:26 am

Go ahead bro,its's your choice

eXceptional - May 13, 2020, 10:27 am

North Korea? Seriously?

I wish I had the chance to migrate to Las Vegas.

This is a joke, isn't it?

You are aware of North Korea's policies on the internet...?

Yeah but if you got cash and can bribe Kim then you can make stacks.

funtela - May 13, 2020, 10:31 am

You'll probably wanna get the hell out of there after the first few days. It's definitely not a good idea. Especially after being used to the opposite for so long.

Sure there is some awful places in North Korea but so is there in America just take a look at the high crime rates.

North Korea has done a lot recently to improve. Don't believe me watch this. North Korea is starting to modernize while keeping in touch with their roots of being such a unique country.

Make sure you take some pictures when you are there.

Exalted - May 13, 2020, 11:25 am

I would say go for it, also don't forget to bring some blue jeans.

Mula-B - May 13, 2020, 11:29 am

So u expect that they will be fine releasing you when u want to leave the country?

B?????araka - May 13, 2020, 2:47 pm

Props to you cuz I would never go and try to live there.

They might give him a good life as a propaganda piece.

Still fucking stupid and he will definitely have his freedom severely restricted.

He'd probably need to have a lot of fans/followers/subscribers for them to offer something like that.

Herbo - May 13, 2020, 3:20 pm

I seriously hope this is a troll post lmao.

Bacardi Cola Lime - May 13, 2020, 4:45 pm

There are documentaries that can give you a fair amount of insights on their culture and way of living. You basically do as they tell you to do, you're forced to propaganda and other stuff that are against human rights.

MarvinMalware - May 13, 2020, 5:18 pm

Oh boy I hope this is a joke?

I can't see you enjoying yourself there as most wouldn't. There's plenty to learn about the country and it's culture through books/movies without having to go through the abuse their citizens do. Honestly blows my mind that you'd be interested in giving up all your rights and personal possessions to live like that but good luck buddy!

jimcola99 - May 13, 2020, 11:11 pm

Say goodbye to your internet. Say goodbye to your everything.

The only thing you will realize is how lucky you had things.

Kant Atta - May 13, 2020, 11:15 pm

You would probably end up dying in some unknown jail cell inbetween interrogation sessions

Who Soup - May 13, 2020, 11:17 pm

It's not worth it, if you go to NK you won't come home.

Please write an open letter to Kim Jung Un and I pretty certain you would make headlines with your request.

Present - May 18, 2020, 1:14 am

I'm pretty sure it's impossible for a foreigner to travel to nk. I mean why do you even want to?

Lozemlpsum - May 18, 2020, 1:20 am

Claim what you want, I still think this is some kind of 'trolling thread' as I can't understand why;

- < You want to choose dictatorship over 'freedom' in the US
- < You want to choose one of the 5 (7 or 9) haircuts you may choose from
- < You do not want to enjoy the TV / Internet as much, since everything is monitored, reviewed and then approved/denied before access
- < You do not want to enjoy the freedom of speech, without being arrested
- < You want to choose for any 'three-generations punishment' (yes they'll lock you up + your kids + the kids of your kids OR your parents (3 generations) as punishment)
- < Etc., etc., etc.,

If it's about the "culture" you want to learn about, you should do research, talk to 'fugitives' that ran away from North Korea or those who simply 'didn't know there was anything else' except North Korea. Then you'll have another view upon that country without having to move there and give up everything that you will miss eventually.
