Your statement is completely false.

Its like saying Donalds real name is John. Donald is Donald, it can not be John unless he decides to change its name. Same thing applies to Bitcoin.

Bitcoin was the first one that came on this world. It is the one and only, the king... Well, you cant have 2 kings right? If BSV was real Bitcoin then why it is called BSV? Sometimes you people have to do some reality check and try to research a bit and see whats up with that. CSW is not Satoshi.

Also you should elaborate more on why you think that BSV is the "real" (read fake or wannabe) bitcoin?

And second question why you think CSW is Satoshi? Or you just read some article that brainwashed you?

Have a nice day.

Didn't he get fined for false claims lol?

He somehow accessed an old Bitcoin (probably did not belong to Satoshi) wallet in court and the judge gave him an extension to prove he was Satoshi by providing 11,000 documents. If he "proves" he is Satoshi he had to pay kleiman (co creator of Bitcoin) half the Bitcoin Satoshi owned. If he doesn't then he had to pay all the legal fees for false claims.

He is stalling as long as possible because he doesn't want to prove he is Satoshi, because he isn't and doesn't have access to the Bitcoin stash, and because he won't admit he isn't Satoshi. Unfortunately, his extension was greatly increased due to coronavirus.

Haha oh these threads are always good for a laugh at least!

Come on man, it's been disproven so many times.

As for BSV, I can understand being brainwashed into believing it follows the whitepaper intentions, but it's not Bitcoin. Its BSV.

BSV is like an XRP. Just another dookiecoin that doesn't belong in top 10. So much potential in the market, and this is the crap people invest in. Whatever.

If i had to choose between BSV and XRP I guess ill keep on using centralized banking. At least those are regulated.
