

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: Avoiding PayPal chargebacks and limiting?

Rally the Bulls - May 20, 2020, 10:58 am

Any advice to avoid chargebacks and getting limited on PayPal? Considering starting a service around here, but given all the scams I want to make sure I'm smart about it. Curious how everyone protects themselves?

Toosii - May 20, 2020, 11:19 am

My advice is to stop using it what so ever things never end well with GayPal.

Rally the Bulls - May 20, 2020, 1:18 pm

(May 20, 2020 11:19 AM)Toosii Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) My advice is to stop using it what so ever things never end well with GayPal.

Unfortunately, one of things I'm wanting to do is an exchange service. PayPal's a fairly major player for that, though I suppose I could just do cryptos/Cashapp/venmo/AGC.

Any issues I should be aware of with the above?

webdev77 - May 20, 2020, 1:18 pm

(May 20, 2020 01:18 PM)Rally the Bulls Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Unfortunately, one of things I'm wanting to do is an exchange service. PayPal's a fairly major player for that, though I suppose I could just do cryptos/Cashapp/venmo/AGC.

Any issues I should be aware of with the above?

Venmo is under the same ownership as Paypal. Be aware.

Rally the Bulls - May 20, 2020, 1:21 pm

(May 20, 2020 01:18 PM)webdev77 Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Venmo is under the same ownership as Paypal. Be aware.

Will keep this in mind. Thanks for the heads up.

I imagine AGCs can probably be fairly risky too since they're typically ewhored?

VisualSoft - May 20, 2020, 1:46 pm

you will find paypal rules against you when you are doing exchanges.

Toosii - May 20, 2020, 5:35 pm

(May 20, 2020 01:21 PM)Rally the Bulls Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Will keep this in mind. Thanks for the heads up.

I imagine AGCs can probably be fairly risky too since they're typically ewhored?

Yes.

[warn]