Hello, I've made a bot (client) in python that connects to the botnet (server). I included some antivm & antisandbox, then obfuscated with base64 execution and another layer with zipping, then packed into exe. I have scanned it on virustotal (stub is too big for nodistribute) and got a few detections from unknown antiviruses. My problem is, that the client 'dies' (I cant say it on 100%, I tested like on 3 devices) after 5-15 minutes of sucessful requests. Is it possible that antivirus deletes it after such long time?

Hello, never upload on VT, it distributes your files and all anti virus will detect your bot, it is possible try to scan it on non distribute scanner to find wich anti virus detect it.

I don't think a antivirus company would delete a sample but i am not sure.
