

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: Jailbreak for all Device | Update your device to 13.5

Jinu - May 23, 2020, 9:06 am

Hello, guys. Good news!

The title is true. Recently Apple has released an update 13.5. In this update, hacker/developer, Pwn20wnd found a 0-day vulnerability in its kernel. Using this, the Unc0ver Team developed a Jailbreak version 5.0.0. It is yet to release on the official site. It will probably release in one or two days.

They are currently performing final stability tests and it is almost 95% completed. The Unc0ver Team claims that this Jailbreak 5.0.0 will support every signed iOS version on every device. And they recommend every user to update their devices to the latest update of Apple 13.5.

This is the Unc0ver Team Tweet:

Quote:We are going to release #unc0ver 5.0.0 with support for every signed iOS version on every device using a 0day kernel vulnerability from @Pwn20wnd in sponsorship with <https://phonerebel.com> very soon. Update your devices to 13.5 and follow our progress on <https://unc0ver.dev>.

For more information, you can check their official site.

lol - May 24, 2020, 7:19 am

Annnnd it's released! Woohoo, time to jailbreak my 2nd phone - iPhone XR!

xootf - May 24, 2020, 12:39 pm

Oh wow I thought the times of jailbreak has gone, Didn't know theres still people that are into this

Who Soup - May 24, 2020, 12:48 pm

damn gonna look into this, I don't have a mac so I was having a lot of trouble with checkra1n/bootra1n

Super - May 26, 2020, 2:55 pm

There's no better feeling than SSH'ing into your own iPhone as root. Thanks for sharing this jailbreak!