Thread: Opinions on where to invest \$5000 with good returns?

Cooldudex - May 24, 2020, 4:08 pm

Hey!

Thread title pretty much says it all here. I have around $5000 I am wanting to invest in someone/something. Any suggestions? I usually make a decent killing gambling but I am trying to dip my feet into something more online. Could be something online/irl, though.

Anyone with some experience have some suggestions?

Rally the Bulls - May 24, 2020, 4:22 pm

Honestly, contact a financial advisor rather than relying on anyone here. There's tons of options, and we don't know your risk tolerance.

Grim - May 24, 2020, 4:23 pm

Do you want quick returns or less risky long term? What do you gamble on? poker sports or what

Honestly, risky or not doesn't matter. It can be risky if it's calculated. I'm more looking for quick returns so I am ready for some risky options

I agree that is obviously the safe route. I'm more looking for some risky, quick returns as this is just some extra money that I have. Extra money but at the same time I care about every last dollar, of course. I should of stated that in the op. I've had some shaky experience in the past with financial advisors and quick returns(not long term investing they are mostly rock solid for that) so I like to take regular people's opinions and experiences when it comes to more risky investments

Hero - May 25, 2020, 5:11 am

Everyone who wants to earn money quick, will lose it even quicker.

Take your time and talk to people who actually now what they do. You barely will find it here sadly.

This.

Too many different advice(s) could be given out here.

< stocks with dividends

< crypto (day-trading)

- < resell rights for ebook(s)
- < garage sales and re-sell on ebay
- < buy 'licenses' and re-sell
- < project-builders
- < Shopify and/or other store(s)

A financial advisor could help you out. I give sales advice but I charge per hour.

Depends on what you're looking for

Long term I would say invest in BTC and don't touch it for 4-5 years.

Short term I would invest it in ETH for a couple of months then cash out. ETH getting a higher demand rn because of the BTC fees.

eSp0rt - May 27, 2020, 12:58 am

I think ETH can be a good idea for invest. I think the BTC will go down in the future.

KoolDizz - May 27, 2020, 4:56 am

You should promote products on the internet as an affiliate- they pay decent commission fees $$$

90210 - May 28, 2020, 5:02 pm

Remember the famous Warren Buffet quote if you're looking for quick returns:

"The stock market is a device for transferring money from the impatient to the patient."

zwz9U1ixura9 - June 2, 2020, 7:21 pm

Personally, I would invest in building a blog and driving traffic to it using seo. Promote affiliate products and have ads.

Luton - June 3, 2020, 9:52 am

I would invest a little money into doing some research such as buying a few investment books, it may get you further than you think.

LSD - June 6, 2020, 3:20 pm

Invest in an index ETF. like VOO, pick 2-3 of those. Your money will grow with the market.

dt21mlg - June 7, 2020, 7:33 am invest in Boeing and JD Weatherspoon stocks, price of their stocks have dropped and have had a low peak when coronavirus was at its peak globally and in the UK, now stocks are continuing to rise, I profited 40% on each share, you can still invest now as share will continue to rise to their normal price pre-coronavirus!

Jokos - June 9, 2020, 12:54 pm

crypto day tradings or stocks bro

LSD - June 9, 2020, 2:50 pm

Stock market: Invest in Index Funds.

Real estate: Save a bit more and find someone to help you pick a house with a good return. Find a property manager and go to town

basseb - June 10, 2020, 1:01 am

I am a big fan of option etfs like QYLD, 10% dividend per year. Paid out every month, negative is you do not go up or down so the money only comes from the dividend. But hey 10% yearly are not so bad

Ivex - June 10, 2020, 7:00 am

Into diversified index funds. Simple, easy and produce nice returns.

Not to mention safe. Can't go wrong with Vangaurd / Spider / Blackrock.

In the last two years QYLD has gone from $24 to $20. The dividends don't really make up for that depreciation

Go to the casino > roulette > bet all cash to RED. GOOD LUCK! ?

zelims - June 14, 2020, 11:46 am

Like others said, index funds(and other ETFs) is your best bet. Vanguard is by far the best.

<https://etfdb.com/etfs/issuers/vanguard/> Pick your poison. VTI (total stock market) or VOO (S&P500) is where you should be looking to position large amounts of money into. Personally i'm heavy VYM and VOO. (and BND but....bonds)

Fozzy_Roof - June 20, 2020, 7:15 pm

Honestly I may not know much but I would donate like a couple hundred dollars to charity my Brother. And for the rest of it, make sure you payed off any debt if you have any. Then I would say is whatever you want to do in the future for example : Start a new hobby, business, gaming, etc... you should invest into that if you want.

darknight4444 - June 26, 2020, 2:40 pm

Go for dividend paying stocks like AT&T .. get 2$ per year for every stock illuminare - June 29, 2020, 10:30 am

You should talk to a finical advisor about this kind of investment

Shone - June 29, 2020, 10:51 am

Put it all into Wirecard AG stock, can easily 100x your money after they reform.

kinnu543 - July 1, 2020, 7:45 am you can invest in mutual funds on sip basis, on long run you may get good returns.

VolVic88 - July 2, 2020, 5:11 pm

It's all about risk to reward imo.

I would speak to a financial advisor or maybe look at some large tech companies that have taken a large fall due to Covid-19.

I have been looking at Hertz Global Holdings Inc, Pre Covid share price was $20 a share now there at $1.50 a potential buyout by a competitor is probably on the cards but again I'm no expert.

Good luck ?

Let me know if you still need to invest that money.

Slow and steady wins the race sounds like you may get greedy and lose it all.

1nstanity - July 17, 2020, 2:53 am

I would recommend ETFs. Maybe 4k to more stable ETFs and 1k to little bit riskier etfs that pays dividends more often

Honestly you probably could swing the stock SPCE for a couple weeks and make some good returns

No problem. I think TSLA is always going to be a safe bet but ATM I would say there are some others that have better short-medium term gains as TSLA seems a bit high right now(in my opinion).

Verdande - August 4, 2020, 6:25 pm

I have some investment method(s) that I can personally vouch for, but they are legitimate investments so it might Burst some peoples bubble of an overrated expectation. For 5k I would bring in around 1500 in the month of august as a quick reference. That includes any fee and cut I would take away from it.

This has to do with tokens and stocks similar to plus500, but the profit is the restriction of other countries buying stocks, excluding the people whom are within the rights to invest in that country (as I am).

PM me for more information, I do not offer this for everyone, so I might not be able to satisfy every request, but at the moment I should have room for about 5 people.

Halo - August 5, 2020, 9:04 am

One tip I can give you and I am only going to give you the ticker:

ORN.

SIM-3467872 - August 5, 2020, 9:10 am

Gambling is risky. I suggest invest in cryptocurrency for long term or start a small business. Investing in other's business can be risky.
