For those who soar in their own dreams.

There will be no recruitment. Stand out from other people in your daily posting and you just might get added.

Cheers!

How did you got invited into the group? Or did you just happen to stand out with your post?

Not really, he offered me. If it really means to you that much, then ask him why.

HF groups in general really don't concern me unless I'm going to be involved with motivated and intelligent people.

I posted in this thread already that I loved the user bar.

I read that you should stand out with your posts, something I don't get my head around haha but I am not really concerned.

Would love an invite, but not going to try really hard to make exceptional posts and/or extraordinary threads to stand out with.

That seems like proposing a girl you just went out with for dinner haha. It ruins the fun.

Great design on the user bar, really makes it look distinguished compared to others. If I may ask what gave you the inspiration to create this crew?

I want to have a crew full of HF members that stand out from the rest, whether it be in their posting, products/sales, attitude, the list is quite endless.

Currently, the members in the crew offer a different dynamic from the rest of the crowd, that is why the crew was made.

hopefully that answered your question ??

Linux X - July 23, 2020, 10:43 pm
