Thread: How to put link without post limit

Corleone™ - May 26, 2020, 11:04 am

Hello everyone,

I am a new member and i am trying to put link in my posts. It gives error message. My post count is low how can i use links without post limit.

Please help.

You don't. You could separate the link like some members do but I'm unsure if that breaks site rules so you might want to check with staff about that.

You make HQ posts to reach the ~25-50 post marker.

No infected links

No links to things that violate forum rules which in the case of OP includes scams about doubling your bitcoins.

No linking to competing sites

Aside from that, as long as a URL is not filtered out, it is generally permissible to link to once you meet the requisite post count or upgraded account status.

Umm.

If it's a short link you can post like this maybe. > [www\[dot\]google\[dot\]com](#)

Or use services like PasteBin and then share the PasteBin link like above.

Does account upgrade bypass the post count limit?

thats exactly my problem, links are big and i cannot separate them like this. I see account upgrade as solution but I am not sure if a new member can upgrade account on 1st day.
