Thread: George Floyd's Death

EbonCipher - May 28, 2020, 8:06 pm

This has probably been posted several times already and i do apologize but like WTF is going on in America, holy s. He had the man in cuffs and he was on the ground, and he still had his knee on his throat with all of his weight on it.

Warning the video is included in this video.

Apparently the officer in question has a long complaint sheet and he's shot unarmed minorities before but never faced any consequences from the department he works for. No wonder why he was kneeling there all smug because he's literally gotten away with murder before. Pos better get the death penalty.

MarvinMalware - May 28, 2020, 8:21 pm

It's incredibly sad, but what I also find sad is the innocent cops being labeled as violent when some of them are amazing people. I understand fully some are complete corrupt scumbags but they aren't all like that. I totally agree with you though that guy was murdered in cold blood no other way to put it. It's fuckin awful man.

As long as the cops you're talking about don't just stand around and let stuff like this happen. They're just as guilty by association and the fact they did nothing to stop it.

Absolutely I couldn't agree more, you have to be a sick individual to stand by and watch. These people are supposed to be first responders at the end of the day criminal or not he was a human being who had a life ahead of him incarcerated or not.

(May 28, 2020 08:47 PM)- Sam - Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) What was the cause of death, did he die during that scene due to the knee of his neck or what?

Yes he had his knee on his throat for about 5 minutes. You can see him pass out in the video as well, some people say that he died right there at the scene and some say he died on his way to the hospital. I mean same shit anyways. He was killed point blank.

B?????araka - May 28, 2020, 10:31 pm yeah its very sad. That cop better get life in prison.

Yanix - May 28, 2020, 10:49 pm

Those 2 policeman should be put into jail...specially that one who have his kneed on Floyd's neck for couple of minutes while pleading that he can't breath.

That was totally inhumane act for the part of those 2 policeman.

Br?dley - May 28, 2020, 10:59 pm

Mixed emotions.

Although very heavy handed and didn't deserve to die. As for all the brain dead people of America rioting in the streets really does nothing. It doesn't change the decision of what the court will hand down.

Glad I don't live in the US, Australia is the best country in the world and not run by a orange headed baboon.

Grim - May 28, 2020, 11:13 pm

Thats really sad to see man. Very bad when people take advantage of the power they have as officers of the law.

Driz - May 28, 2020, 11:40 pm

I don't understand people commenting here saying the protestors are brain dead? If there's no protest, there's no outcry, this shit will continue till eternity. Always has been. Protest and Insurrection got them minorities rights in the first place. Protest is valid always.

Looting, robbing and other criminal activities are a direct result of capitalistic state tendencies.

faxxgrid - May 28, 2020, 11:51 pm

Those two murderers (on cop uniforms) knew exactly what they were doing. He know he weighs more 90kg and with a force from the knee on the neck will dislocate several neck discs and savage the spinal cord even. Those guys deserve some jungle justice.

Am only outraged that people are looting shops that have nothing related with the murderers or the police. If these murderer's home were the target maybe it is reasonable and proportionate response.

OBAMASELF - May 29, 2020, 12:12 am

Racism never ends aye, its gonna be still there and its always be still there faxxgrid - May 29, 2020, 12:17 am

I cannot agree more with your opinion which is a known fact.

He died at the scene, 8 minutes with a knee on his neck, he obviously died of either asphyxiation or strangulation.

Looting, robbing and other criminal activities are a direct result of capitalistic state tendencies. I'll say it again, looting and protesting does not change the decision of what's going to happen to that police officer. You citizens of America walk around with guns in your pockets and think it's acceptable, since when has America cared for human life? Take a look at your president and the way he has killed 100,000 people with a virus.

"The virus will come and go, people will die and tomorrow is another day" literally his exact words. What's the other one? "Inject domestics it will clear the virus" why all of a sudden everyone is jumping up and down over old mate that died from a police officer with a knee to his throat? Why all of a sudden are we caring about human life when we never did in the first place?

I don't understand the way America works sometimes, it all seems backwards. Not saying what the police officer did was right, but sometimes we need to have a look at the big picture.

SpookyD - May 29, 2020, 4:58 am

This is america! (the song)

Poor guy, got murdered by cops just like that.

I always hated police, bunch of low self esteem bullies.

1. I'm not an American, I come from a country which has handled the virus far worse. Tinfoil conspiracy theorists do have one point though which is correct, Governments have been using this pandemic to capitalize on their plans which normally gets protested on/scrutinized too much. Brazil did it, India is doing it, China is doing it. Literally every country has governments that are trying to push their agenda while the pandemic grips us.

Its true, the pandemic will claim even more lives because of what has just happened and what will happen in the future. But to sit idle and let them get away with it is a far worse alternative. They didn't give a shit when Eric Garner died, when Trayvon Martin was shot dead and I'm surprised at the amount of traction this act has received though. Probably because of the very very heartbreaking video that exists.

The big picture for you and me, non citizens of America is we go on with our fucking lives. To the average black man in America, the big picture remains the same. Get shot by a cop or be harassed because of your skin tone. Since Trump came on, its not just the blacks who have been sidelined, but literally, every fucking race.

Bukakku-Kun - May 29, 2020, 6:41 am i saw this video. he has 60 policemen guarding this house from mad folk. hes being escorted to florida.

btw he ordered food and niggas didnt let the food drivers pass lmao and he didnt eat for few days ngl and his wife is noodlewh0-re yet hes racist to blackz and has a hat with some white supremacist text

?ystem - May 29, 2020, 6:43 am

It's pretty @#$%ed, I'll admit, for all the things you so well articulated about his unfortunate death. The riots here are insane, slowly progressing further and further out from the main city where it happened. Just this morning I received from my friend and former supervisor that they are now in my old neighborhood and she's felt it necessary to pack a "Go Bag."

Bacardi Cola Lime - May 29, 2020, 6:59 am

I didn't believe what I was watching. It made me extremely sad, upset and I felt sick to my stomach. Police brutality, which is usually against minorities, should be dealt with the capital punishment. Enough of this shit.

Hero - May 29, 2020, 7:35 am

Want to quickly get a law changed?

Let black people do it.

For example: Let black people open carry their guns and patrol the streets, then immediately it will be illegal to open carry.

Happened before.

What i want to say: Black people are second class citizen's in america. Systematic racism still exists.

Vibe - May 29, 2020, 7:38 am

They burned the station the cops worked at last night, gonna get worse everyday until they charge the cops

Exalted - May 29, 2020, 12:06 pm

Such as sad sight, hope to see the cop go to prison in this case.

I think they charged them a few days ago. I really feel for the Floyds family, they seen very broken when they made their statements.

Well you're wrong they charge one cop with murder 3 and manslaughter 2

Maximum of 25 years. That's not justice all the cops there need to be charged, and they need to up it to at least murder 2

One cop for murder 3/ manslutger 2

That's not justice, especially since new coroner reports clearly state this was a homicide
