

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: "Shopping Deals" question

Angela White - May 29, 2020, 3:48 pm

Would I be allowed to post coupon codes for a product I own that's on sale in the shopping deals section?

Basically I have 3 products, doing a 40% off deal on all of them (like a bundle for 40% off), but it's only going to be valid for 1 week. I was wondering if I just created a post in the "Shopping Deals" section and said something like "40% off of all KasprDev products, coupon code is xxxxxxxx, if you are purchasing, start a contract with me first", or would something like this go in the premium sellers section?

I wanted to avoid the clutter of the premium sellers section and have my shopping deal just in the shopping deals section, I'm just not sure how that'd work if I actually own the product that the deal is on. I'm fine with not posting there if need be.

Cooligan - May 29, 2020, 4:08 pm

Is the product you're referring to something that you already sell on HF?

Angela White - May 29, 2020, 4:15 pm

(May 29, 2020 04:08 PM)Cooligan Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Is the product you're referring to something that you already sell on HF?

Yes, which makes me feel like it belongs in the marketplace, but I just want to make sure. I feel like more users would see it if I posted it in the shopping deals section.

Deal would only be lasting 7 days so after 7 days the thread will be closed.

Cooligan - May 29, 2020, 4:17 pm

(May 29, 2020 04:15 PM)KasprDev Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Yes, which makes me feel like it belongs in the marketplace, but I just want to make sure. I feel like more users would see it if I posted it in the shopping deals section.

Deal would only be lasting 7 days so after 7 days the thread will be closed.

Then couldn't you just include the coupons in your sales thread, say at the top so it's easily seen?

webdev77 - May 29, 2020, 4:17 pm

No. Forum rule number 1 for the shopping deals forum.

1. Do not post topics where you are a seller.

Eagle 95 - May 30, 2020, 12:18 am

The purpose of that section is to post when you see a good deal online or offline, for example some item is heavily discounted on amazon or there's some free games (like Civilization 6 from Epic games) given away, discounted or whatever or McDonalds is giving many food coupons, etc. Section was never meant to be for self-promotion.