Thread: Have you witnessed Police Officer assualting someone? faxxgrid - June 2, 2020, 1:31 am

In the awake of the recent killing by a police officer, am just wondering if you have witnessed such horrific act(s).

Please share experience, thoughts, feelings and emotions?

Bossk - June 2, 2020, 2:17 am

No, but I've seen countless incidents of people assaulting officers.

Fortunately, I haven't. Things like that don't really happen here in Wales. It's more officers get assaulted and the officers stand their ground until they're able to arrest.

|Yeah I know how it is in Wales and Manchester on weekend.. drunken disorderly and assault of Police officers. I bet if they take all UK citizenships and resident to America and not show them how police officers act in America and the UK folks came with that mentality there would be over a thousand death. Because the US officers would have a reasonable ground to use above and beyond excessive force.

Is it in the US or England?

I've never experienced witnessing something like that but I must admit when I see the video where George Floyd where being arrested I feel angry on how those officers arrested him and treated him.

If I were there I would really shouted a lot and call the attention of many people to see how those officers made their actions toward George.

When I was 16 years old I made a really shitty decision that landed me in handcuffs, I didn't fight the arrest nor resist them physically. I still ended up with 3 cops on top of me after I was dropped to the ground by the first one, two of them held me down while one handcuffed me. My face had been pushed so hard into the pavement I had cuts and road rash across my forehead and chin, also ended with a chipped tooth and a busted lip.

Now years later I do honestly believe I needed it, I deserved it even, I thank those cops for changing my delinquent ways as a kid however that doesn't mean those police had the right to do what they did at the time.

I have once also seen an officer in my town hit an old friend of mine in the head with a mag light, leaving a permanent scar, and a pretty damn bad concussion. Don't get me wrong though I've met some amazing police officers who would do anything for their town as well. Not everyone is shitty ?

Not really unless the person that they are questioning is trying to act tough. In my country you don't disrespect an officer and you don't talk to them like you are talking to your friends. In my country police officers ask you simple questions, if you refuse to answer u are getting detained. And usually the questions when they perform the control or stop you, are like "How are you today?" "Registration and driving license please" and "Where are you going?" or they might tell you if there's any accident down the road, to watch out. Or if you speed up or something they'll just warn you and that's it. No other questions asked.

If you refuse to answer on all of these you are getting detained because you are being a douchebag for trying to make a drama out of nothing where they literally ask you a simple questions. And if you continue to act a tough boy then they will bring you to the police station and ask you nicely one more time. If you refuse to answer you gonna get beaten and if you try to go to the court you will lose so bad.

Because the officers have the rights to ask you those 3 simple questions and you HAVE to answer. I don't even understand why people like to make a drama and act tough by saying "oh I don't want to answer on your questions or I don't have to". Like it makes no sense. It's so simple, just answer on those questions in 3 seconds and you are free to go. This is just if they do perform control. Else they don't stop you for nothing if they have nothing to do, they will just keep roaming around.

Also I was a witness of a guy who was being questioned. The questions were: Can I get an ID, driving license and registration, and where you are heading? Suddenly he started yelling and saying cops are pigs or something along those lines. He got handcuffed and transported to the police station. The next day when I went to the hospital to get my blood results I saw the same guy coming out with bandages all over his face and saying "I shouldn't act tough, it was a bad idea" ?

Shooting in my country is none. They would rather beat you then shoot you.

Usually when I see cops I look the other way. So no I didn't see anything like that.

shakur123 - June 2, 2020, 2:03 pm

thank god no, where i lived you see a lot of corruption but not killer cops actions thankfully (Jun 2, 2020 01:50 AM)Online User Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Thankfully no. Not sure how i'd react in the situation =/ but i'd hope everyone stands up for the person and tells the police officer to stop.

If someone did that they would just be putting themselves in danger. In their view that would technically be "obstruction of justice" no matter how out of line the cop is acting and the same officer might start tasing everybody in sight or get their cop buddies to help them lmao

Megatron - June 2, 2020, 3:26 pm

I've never really seen an arrest going on, unless it was from a distance. Thankfully, I haven't witnessed any assaults. I know it's a real thing, though, and hope I never have to witness it.

B?????araka - June 2, 2020, 4:20 pm

No i haven't thank god. I don't know what i would do.

faxxgrid - June 2, 2020, 4:56 pm

sometimes I wonder what these cops talk about in their locker rooms after assaulting or killing the people they have sworn to serve

That is the best approach to those cops. In fact anything that would make someone have contact with cops. Please avoid it completely.

Yin Yang - June 2, 2020, 5:02 pm

No I haven't, but fck 12 nonetheless

Yang, do you mean you slept with or assaulted 12 cops?

Eh, I was in a shitty period of life using different substances and drinking a lot. Made a lot of mistakes, that night I decided to break into a car while extremely intoxicated after being told there was multiple thousand dollars worth's of electronics in there. Long story short all stolen items were returned, and I faced a series of unfortunate but well deserved legal consequences.

Moral of the story, just be smart.

Thanks for sharing your ordeal and personal experience with the justice system... Glad you turn your life around. Well done mate!

A + - June 2, 2020, 6:53 pm

Nah nothing like that. Only on TV. I try and avoid them as much as possible anyway :P

Happeh - June 2, 2020, 6:56 pm

Shit like that doesn't happen in the UK, thankfully.

Bald - June 2, 2020, 7:21 pm

Yes .. i saw it on youtube every-time.

same lol sad to see only the reactions of the officers and never showing the footage of before when they were attacked.

hfrocket1713 - June 2, 2020, 8:09 pm

yea my boy got hit with a baton real hard on the leg cuz he refused to open the door for cops to bust a party. it was so messed up cuz he didnt resist they cop just brought him to the back and fucked him up. and my other boy got his face smashed in the street but sued the cop.

cops are pigs. fuk 12

MightyOne - June 3, 2020, 12:29 am

I never got myself in a situation where i saw police brutality or any other office-job thingy who abused his rank.

Not even racism. i live in a quite place lmao
