Thread: Just got scammed for \$500 by the reputable user PATIES !

sonya - June 5, 2020, 4:38 pm

Hi guys,

I know I'm the one to blame here for not using a contract with a middle man, but this pathetic scammer called "PATIES" showed me some convincing proofs of his hacking business & that his account is reputable which doesn't have any dispute. One of his proofs was a picture of him holding $45K (in front of his monitor which shows our messages) to brag about being rich & that he doesn't need to scam people for just a couple of hundred dollars.

Furthermore, he told me that he'd only deal with an upfront payments & there's no need for a middle man cause he needs to receive the money so he can start funding my hacking job without getting delayed by the middle man. A few hours later, he pretended that he was half-way through completing the hack. A few minutes later, he blocked me everywhere!

Here's my proofs so that the members here won't get scammed by him too.

Stay aware & be safe from such scammers!

Yes, I can confirm for his scamming methods as I was about to pay him too but thank god I didn't.

Here's the "claimed" proof that he sent me which shows our messages on Discord:

In this case, I think it's 100% your mistake for sending money to a stranger and not using a contract system. Unfortunately, nothing can be done now, just be careful next time!

You should have known he was scheming. anyways good luck next time and thanks for the CA

Good job trying to extort me for money. You just fucked two of your friends through the process.

OP threatening to have people fake-vouch on this exact thread if I don't come up with $500 with his /CLOSED/ account alexis20 - <https://hackforums.net/member.php?action=profile&uid=4743926>

OP then made a new account and sent me these messages:

Guess who shows up?

His two buddies who vouched for him while knowing he's a multi:

You just fucked yourself with your own stick. Quit making new accounts and making your friends break rules throughout. Have a good day.

Your proofs were actually cut to include only the parts that support your fake claim & the admins can check our whole convos to decide for themselves. And yes, I had to ask a few of those members to vouch (in case they believed my case) since I'm a new member here who can't be taken seriously, while they're reputable & old enough to decide for themselves. You're just trying to prove yourself innocent, man. People can check your profile's negative ratings to see for themselves.

You're just trying to prove yourself innocent, man. People can check your profile's negative ratings to see for themselves. My proof can be screen shared with any HF member interested in seeing the validity of the conversation. I can refresh the page multiple times. PM me if you want to see the proof.

What your "friends" did is cooperate with you across many multis without reporting you to the admins and fake vouched on an invalid dispute to get you some validity. They broke the rules for you.

Negative ratings by your buddies who negged me before this dispute was even made because you told them to :)

I'll stop posting here until you get closed. You can keep clowning on your own. I won't give this more attention than it has. Any admin/HF member that wants to see the validity of the conversation via live screenshare can PM me. Thank you!

What about "Ineedhacker" proof, was he trying to extort you as well with that picture you sent him to convince him that you're a "legit" dealer to pay him upfront & without using HF contract system? You still can't deny what you said to both of us on Discord since your DC ID is attached to your account here.

Semmenial - June 5, 2020, 9:43 pm

Avoiding the HF Contract System is against the rules. If you get scammed, don't expect anything from HF if you don't use a contract.

Scary - June 5, 2020, 10:06 pm

Like Semmenial said, using the HF contract system is a MUST when it comes to deals as it prevents from impersonators and makes sure you actually don't get scammed. Next time use it.

Temp_reassign - June 6, 2020, 1:26 am

I've seen the whole convo surrounding the deal from OP and then i politely asked you to refund him but you ignored. That was how you caught a -neg. but you come in on the thread and claim you willing to show proof. what are you going to proof? that you did not persuade OP not to use the contract? that the job was illegal and so to go on disc. with you? No one is interested because OP was an idiot not to read/follow site policy. It does not change the fact that you stole $500 from off him because he is a noob. relax. this isn't a deal dispute...it's a 'CA'.

Wow, I dont like to give biased comments, but it's pretty obvious who deserves a ban here.
