Thread: Admin page finder bruteforce

sapalapa - June 8, 2020, 6:01 am

Hello I did try at least 10-20 tools to find admin page of some server, used many known worldlist with usual admin page, but non did find it. Looks like they use some very custom login page url. How could I find it by some brute force method?

Maybe a more targeted approach? Read source code / lookup IT staff / on LinkedIn / lookup archived versions to find hints on what web technology is used.

Based on the web technology you hopefully can do some research to find the admin url.

I used many vulnerability scanners, directory scan also..... I did manage to get into database and get admin username and password in MD5 data but I cant find the admin login page.

Yeah not only that the scanners are noisy af, but they tend to give you a false information

This server don't have any admin or login page brother so you cannot find, the only option is there is open SSH that's the only way.
