

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: Trying to learn more hacking. Bing isn't helping

Demoralise - June 9, 2020, 8:17 pm

So I've been using Bing to gather information on hacking techniques. So far I haven't had much success

Angela White - June 9, 2020, 8:19 pm

Why are you using Bing in the first place, regardless what you're trying to look up?

Demoralise - June 9, 2020, 8:20 pm

(Jun 9, 2020 08:19 PM)KasprDev Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Why are you using Bing in the first place, regardless what you're trying to look up?What do you suggest I use instead?

bevc - June 9, 2020, 8:20 pm

I couldn't say with absolutely certainty, but I don't think that Bing has ever helped anybody with anything, ever.

Demoralise - June 9, 2020, 8:31 pm

(Jun 9, 2020 08:20 PM)bevc Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I couldn't say with absolutely certainty, but I don't think that Bing has ever helped anybody with anything, ever.It helped me find cute cat videos on Vimeo

bevc - June 9, 2020, 8:45 pm

(Jun 9, 2020 08:31 PM)Demoralise Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) It helped me find cute cat videos on Vimeo
Not the first time I've been wrong, won't be the last.

Semmenial - June 9, 2020, 8:49 pm

What type of 'hacking' do you want to learn?

Not many people want to do this, but I suggest you figure out exactly what type of hacking you want to get into, then learn a programming language, and start making tools for it. It'll benefit you in all aspects of life, and I'm sure many others would agree.

TheBrokenWasp - June 10, 2020, 8:51 am

(Jun 9, 2020 08:49 PM)Semmenial Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) What type of 'hacking' do you want to learn?

Not many people want to do this, but I suggest you figure out exactly what type of hacking you want to get into, then learn a programming language, and start making tools for it. It'll benefit you in all aspects of life, and I'm sure many others would agree.

This guy has threads about how he does buffer overflow exploit development and such, so this thread is kind of weird to me, as someone like that should be able to do programming and hacking just fine, if not learn it on their own pretty quickly, right?

Semmenial - June 10, 2020, 10:56 am

(Jun 10, 2020 08:51 AM)TheBrokenWasp Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) This guy has threads about how he does buffer overflow exploit development and such, so this thread is kind of weird to me, as someone like that should be able to do programming and hacking just fine, if not learn it on their own pretty quickly, right?

Could possibly just be a troll thread.

ragedomen - June 10, 2020, 12:26 pm

(Jun 9, 2020 08:20 PM)Demoralise Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) What do you suggest I use instead?
Crap, this is the worst ever. Use vivaldi with duckduck go.

Xamarin - June 10, 2020, 12:32 pm

Certainly a troll post. No one uses Bing in 2020.

//Closed.

dybbvk - June 10, 2020, 2:33 pm

Try your local library! ??

verg - June 10, 2020, 7:59 pm

(Jun 10, 2020 02:33 PM)dybbvk Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Try your local library! ??
yes! if you don't want to put a book to your face, download some free ebooks from this site!

Gary Clark Jr. - June 10, 2020, 10:34 pm

Have you tried Google? I know it's a fairly new search engine but I think you might be able to find what you're looking for if you just use it.

Zeus - June 10, 2020, 10:35 pm

FBI help this guy mate you know it

Demoralise - June 11, 2020, 3:32 am

(Jun 10, 2020 10:34 PM)Praise Kek Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Have you tried Google? I know it's a fairly new search engine but I think you might be able to find what you're looking for if you just use it. Google, so YouTube search? YouTube is Google isn't it

FBI - June 11, 2020, 11:50 am

Removed, don't need anymore

MarvinMalware - June 11, 2020, 1:22 pm

You answered your own question. Stop using bing, who tf told you bing was a good idea?