

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: PayPal or not on my shopify store?

EChta - June 12, 2020, 5:51 pm

Do you use paypal with your shopify store? if not what should i use for german shopify store?

AccountSenpai - June 14, 2020, 12:56 pm

You should use it if you want more sales bro... PP is used by millions of people and alot of people prefer paying with PP

Filthy Frank - June 15, 2020, 5:52 am

I currently don't own a shopify shop myself so I don't really know what payment processors you can link on shopify.

However some friends of mine have a shop and they just accept payments that are most common used in the country.

What I'm saying is, just look at what your target audience is and what are the most common payment methods they'd use.

In my example, iDeal is used since all dutch banks work with that and all their customers are based in the netherlands.

Maybe there is also such a service in Germany.

(to get iDeal working I believe you need to be a registered company)

X Symbol - June 15, 2020, 6:52 am

Paypal is a bitch. If you're just starting out, probably dont wanna deal with that headache. Unless you're well funded and wont hurt if Paypal holds onto your funds for 3weeks. Then go right ahead.