The group includes a yellow username. Group name and userbar must be changed after purchase. If anyone is wanting the userbar ownership rights I'm selling ?

Good luck to both of you in selling these. Hopefully someone buys the rights and keeps that Ston3r group going. ?

Correct. If they want the branding they need to buy the branding rights from Zeus otherwise it needs to be fully rebranded. Only thing the group is missing is yellow pot leaves as profile stars.

What in theory stops somebody from buying a group and keeping the userbar and name without buying the rights?

It's a userbar why would he be bothered it's common sense if someone tried to steal a userbar it would just get put on another group or crew I have so you wouldn't be able to make profit. If you where to do that why would you ask such a question?

To be used again.

If I ever sell the group, the user bar goes back to the original owner.

In the contract with MMLF it would state that the group needs to be rebranded upon transfer. If that does not happen MMLF can easily open a dispute and overall wouldn't be a great start for a newly transferred group's reputation.

The way i see this pattern going on within HF as of current date.
We have a new generation of members.

- 1) do they have the money to spend? IMO: (I don't think so)
- 2) Members have the money but unwilling to spend it. Perhaps.

We always say groups/crews will sell for what members are willing to pay.
This is 2020, Not 2012-2014 when groups sold for 10K or more.

We must ask our self for the ones selling Groups/Crews.
Is this realistic with what we are asking for?

Here are a few examples of whats being sold at our current time.

Crews

Then we have one more crew that was for sell recently.

Syndicate crew for sale \$300
Syndicate crew, max 10 members. (Sold)

And then we have one group for sell at our current date.

SIM-3323508 Official Group For Sale \(Colored Username Included\)
Selling for 0.35 BTC. Translation? Almost 4K at our current BTC prices.

This is not a problem as i see it.

However? The problem I'm seeing at our current times?

Our current generation of members are cheap?

And as for us sellers? we're screwed and might have to take a big loss or just walk away.

For myself? I have already recouped my investment with both my crew and group.

So it's not a big deal to me.

Bottom line folks? Times have changed here on HF, Like it or not.

Problem is exactly this, and I'm not addressing u, I'm saying generally - that most of the members who buy groups buy it as an investment so they can recoup what they gave + some extra money and they don't care about group anymore. The group is just source of income. That's why groups quality has fallen hard last few years

You get your private group, which you can set a Userbar too like the ones you're seeing on member's profiles.

Depends on the group specifications, you can have a set amount of people you can invite and usually a private subforum to post in.
