

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: A Day of Infinite Possibilities

Megatron - June 13, 2020, 9:45 pm

I just finished watching Groundhog Day (1993) for the first time and it made me wonder what it would be like to repeat one day for an indefinite amount of time. You could do pretty much anything you want and you cannot die (if you die, you still wake up and repeat the day). Each day you wake up, you will still remember everything from the day(s) before.

What would you do if you had to relive a day indefinitely (think about the day you're replying to this thread on)?

I'm not sure what I would do. I would try to do various things and I think I would start radically, until I get a little more sane about the situation. I'm interested to hear everyone else's thoughts.

shakur123 - June 13, 2020, 10:05 pm

I love this movie, Andie mcdowell looks so good in this one.

As it was portrait in the movie, i will try to learn a lot of stuff, hit on some girls, drink a lot (ey no hangover!!) Spend a lot (no bills to pay), talk and really know my family and friends.

Jotaro - June 13, 2020, 10:37 pm

As long as I have a choice to decide when it ends, I would probably do everything I fear doing because of the potential consequences. If there is a complete reset, I can find out what works and what doesnt work

MightyOne - June 14, 2020, 2:25 am

Wow this is something i actually get to think about sometimes!

What i would do if i had to relive a day indefinitely, is probably all of the following:

- 1) spend some days to just go around and fuck really hot girls that are like top model level.
- 2) break into a bank or do something exciting that you will never ever do - just to feel the adrenaline and rush.
- 3) then i would have probably just spent my way of thinking how i can maximize the day to feel 100% happy and good about that day.
gotta maximize the day !

MarvinMalware - June 14, 2020, 9:24 am

I would go absolutely insane, I don't think I'd make it out mentally unscathed lmao. I'd probably try all the crazy things that aren't socially acceptable or legal before eventually having a mental breakdown.

Megatron - June 14, 2020, 9:25 am

(Jun 13, 2020 10:05 PM)shakur123 Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) As it was portrait in the movie, i will try to learn a lot of stuff, hit on some girls, drink a lot (ey no hangover!!) Spend a lot (no bills to pay), talk and really know my family and friends.

Yeah, I feel like there's a natural progression of things to do. I wonder if you're able to take worldly possessions to the next day or if it's just you. If I could, I would bring a bunch of money to the next day.

(Jun 13, 2020 10:37 PM)Jotaro Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) As long as I have a choice to decide when it ends, I would probably do everything I fear doing because of the potential consequences. If there is a complete reset, I can find out what works and what doesn't work

He didn't really have a choice in the movie, but it would be interesting to choose to relive a day. The possibilities are endless.

(Jun 14, 2020 02:25 AM)MightyOne Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Wow this is something i actually get to think about sometimes!

What i would do if i had to relive a day indefinitely, is probably all of the following:

1) spend some days to just go around and fugg really hot girls that are like top model level.
2) break into a bank or do something exciting that you will never ever do - just to feel the adrenaline and rush.

3) then i would have probably just spent my way of thinking how i can maximize the day to feel 100% happy and good about that day.

gotta maximize the day !

It's crazy to think of a day with absolutely zero consequences. I think most people dream of this, especially with the immense societal pressure we all face.

shakur123 - June 14, 2020, 9:36 am

(Jun 14, 2020 09:24 AM)Shoto Todoroki Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I would go absolutely insane, I don't think I'd make it out mentally unscathed lmao. I'd probably try all the crazy things that aren't socially acceptable or legal before eventually having a mental breakdown.

*SPOILER

Well at one time in a movie he try to kill himself several times, and after that he just didnt care anymore and decided to roll with it, maybe that can happened to u (hehe not de suicide thing bro)

7 - June 14, 2020, 9:43 am

Havent we all been living the same day over and over since this lockdown?

Actually sometimes it feels like groundhog day reading the requests in threads.

I was thinking of running psychological tests on humanity if I was stuck in a loop but imagine you were pushing the boundaries of the tests and all of the sudden the loop stopped? Imagine you shagged everything hot over and over and thought about trying something different and then all of a sudden you had to live with it! Imagine you jumped of a building and then it was tomorrow..... you would be gutted about all of this.

I think the best thing to do would be to learn, travel and prepare for the day the cycle broke. Find a job that paid daily and save up.

Megatron - June 14, 2020, 9:47 am

(Jun 14, 2020 09:43 AM)NulldB Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I was thinking of running psychological tests on humanity if I was stuck in a loop but imagine you were pushing the boundaries of the tests and all of the sudden the loop stopped? Imagine you shagged everything hot over and over and thought about trying something different and then all of a sudden you had to live with it! Imagine you jumped of a building and then it was tomorrow..... you would be gutted about all of this.

That's an incredibly interesting way of thinking about it. It'd be crazy if you thought there was nothing to answer for and then you had to answer for all that you've done. It also makes me think of how the natural human tendency is to start doing reckless and animalistic activities.

MightyOne - June 14, 2020, 9:58 am

(Jun 14, 2020 09:25 AM)Megatron Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Yeah, I feel like there's a natural progression of things to do. I wonder if you're able to take worldly possessions to the next day or if it's just you. If I could, I would bring a bunch of money to the next day.

He didn't really have a choice in the movie, but it would be interesting to choose to relive a day. The possibilities are endless.

It's crazy to think of a day with absolutely zero consequences. I think most people dream of this, especially with the immense societal pressure we all face.

Yha you have a point!

social pressure is such a key factor in our day to day life no-one realise how hard that is and how it affects our lives!

MarvinMalware - June 14, 2020, 10:01 am

(Jun 14, 2020 09:36 AM)shakur123 Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) *SPOILER

Well at one time in a movie he try to kill himself several times, and after that he just didnt care anymore and decided to roll with it, maybe that can happened to u (hehe not de suicide thing bro)

Oh shit I might have to go watch this it sounds interesting, but yeah that's exactly what would happen to me lmao. Where can I stream it ?

Megatron - June 14, 2020, 10:17 am

(Jun 14, 2020 10:01 AM)Shoto Todoroki Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Oh shit I might have to go watch this it sounds interesting, but yeah that's exactly what would happen to me lmao. Where can I stream it ?

It's on Netflix right now, that's where I watched it. Since it's pretty popular, it could likely be found in other places as well.

MarvinMalware - June 14, 2020, 10:22 am

(Jun 14, 2020 10:17 AM)Megatron Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) It's on Netflix right now, that's where I watched it. Since it's pretty popular, it could likely be found in other places as well.

Works for me I got Netflix, gonna have to check this out sounds pretty good.

T0Bi - June 14, 2020, 10:25 am

(Jun 14, 2020 02:25 AM)MightyOne Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) 1) spend some days to just go around and fugg really hot girls that are like top model level.

How would you manage to do that, if you can't already?

If you workout, your body will reset the next day, so nothing possible to make oneself more attractive.

You could obviously try to find out stuff about her, try different moves etc. but it'll probably take a while, depending on your attractiveness obviously.

You can also get very knowledgeable but that takes time as well (:

Just because you have endless possibilities doesn't mean you are capable of doing them.

I am and will always be a lazy fuck, so let's be honest I probably wouldn't use the time to learn a language or a new skill..

Megatron - June 14, 2020, 10:27 am

(Jun 14, 2020 10:25 AM)T0Bi Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) How would you manage to do that, if you can't already?

If you workout, your body will reset the next day, so nothing possible to make oneself more attractive.

You could obviously try to find out stuff about her, try different moves etc. but it'll probably take a while, depending on your attractiveness obviously.

You can also get very knowledgeable but that takes time as well (:

Just because you have endless possibilities doesn't mean you are capable of doing them.

I am and will always be a lazy fugg, so let's be honest I probably wouldn't use the time to learn a language or a new skill..

True, most people would need to become super charismatic. Although, one could literally try every approach each day and one is bound to work. This strategy would take eternity for it to work on all women, however.

Wolf - June 14, 2020, 12:56 pm

This is interesting.

First, I'll try figuring out what's causing this phenomenon.

Day 1: Normal, morning headache

Day 2: I relive day 1 and would be confused/excited at the same time. ~ I still don't know what caused this, but I'm definitely reliving previous day. After spending my day, I go to sleep at night.

Day 3: I woke up from good nights sleep, my head still hurts. I check the date on my mobile phone, it's still day1. I'd spend this as usual, with one final goal. Don't fall asleep during the nighttime, because, that's the last thing I remember.

Day 4 Option 1: I managed not to fall asleep. I think to my self, as I look at the time on my phone "23:59" - I open my eyes, I'm laying in bed. It's morning, my head hurts. (this would confirm that phenomenon is occurring without me falling asleep and is time based)

Day 4 Option 2: I managed not to fall asleep. I think to my self, as I look at the time on my phone "23:59". Suddenly, I feel pressure in my chest, I feel my nose started bleeding and my ears are ringing. I'm afraid. I'm gonna die. - I open my eyes, I'm laying in bed. It's morning, my head hurts.

Continuation: If this is indeed a phenomenon I can't beat. then eventually, my perception of time would be much different from the rest of the world. I'm unsure which change it would bring in me, but I feel I'd start numbing, little by little. After some time, I would fully understand, that my lifespan, becomes 1 day. That 1 day, would most likely, by me, be perceived as really long period of time. because it would be the only thing I have.

Similar to how elderly people perceive time different from children (eg.)

Megatron - June 14, 2020, 1:07 pm

(Jun 14, 2020 12:56 PM)Wolf Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) This is interesting.

First, I'll try figuring out what's causing this phenomenon.

Day 1: Normal, morning headache

Day 2: I relive day 1 and would be confused/excited at the same time. ~ I still don't know what caused this, but I'm definitely reliving previous day. After spending my day, I go to sleep at night.

Day 3: I woke up from good nights sleep, my head still hurts. I check the date on my mobile phone, it's still day1. I'd spend this as usual, with one final goal. Don't fall asleep during the nighttime, because, that's the last thing I remember.

Day 4 Option 1: I managed not to fall asleep. I think to my self, as I look at the time on my phone "23:59" - I open my eyes, I'm laying in bed. It's morning, my head hurts. (this would confirm that phenomenon is occurring without me falling asleep and is time based)

Day 4 Option 2: I managed not to fall asleep. I think to my self, as I look at the time on my phone "23:59". Suddenly, I feel pressure in my chest, I feel my nose started bleeding and my ears are ringing. I'm afraid. I'm gonna die. - I open my eyes, I'm laying in bed. It's morning, my head hurts.

Continuation: If this is indeed a phenomenon I can't beat. then eventually, my perception of time would be much different from the rest of the world. I'm unsure which change it would bring in me, but I feel I'd start numbing, little by little. After some time, I would fully understand, that my lifespan, becomes 1 day. That 1 day, would most likely, by me, be perceived as really long period of time. because it would be the only thing I have.

Similar to how elderly people perceive time different from children (eg.)

Thanks for the detailed answer. This seems like a very likely scenario if this unlikely thing were to happen. When I was watching the movie, I did consider what might happen if one tried to stay awake until the next day.

shakur123 - June 14, 2020, 2:29 pm

I love groundhog day its an amazing movie, i seen a couple of remakes (even the jeep commercial) but

SPOILER

I always feel bad about the homeless guy, i absolutelly love when they say "Sometimes people just die", and bill with all his hope and knowledge he say "Not today", that just broke me. I will se it later just for the fun of it, thanks OP for reminding this to me

Megatron - June 14, 2020, 3:35 pm

(Jun 14, 2020 02:29 PM)shakur123 Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I love groundhog day its an amazing movie, i seen a couple of remakes (even the jeep commercial) but

SPOILER

I always feel bad about the homeless guy, i absolutelly love when they say "Sometimes people just die", and bill with all his hope and knowledge he say "Not today", that just broke me. I will se it later just for the fun of it, thanks OP for reminding this to me

Yeah, it's great. I was amazed that I hadn't seen it yet. The old guy was an interesting part of the movie. I wonder if it symbolizes the fact that time must move on and he must start acting selfless in order to get out of the loop.

shakur123 - June 14, 2020, 8:56 pm

(Jun 14, 2020 03:35 PM)Megatron Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Yeah, it's great. I was amazed that I hadn't seen it yet.

I thought u seen it before, its a good old movie, theres a jeep commercial that i wait like forever for it

<https://www.dailymotion.com/video/x7rgmy9>

SPOILER

And also its estimated that bill was repeating the same day for 10 years

MightyOne - June 15, 2020, 12:54 am

(Jun 14, 2020 10:25 AM)T0Bi Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) How would you manage to do that, if you can't already? If you workout, your body will reset the next day, so nothing possible to make oneself more attractive.

You could obviously try to find out stuff about her, try different moves etc. but it'll probably take a while, depending on your attractiveness obviously.

You can also get very knowledgeable but that takes time as well (:

Just because you have endless possibilities doesn't mean you are capable of doing them.

I am and will always be a lazy fugg, so let's be honest I probably wouldn't use the time to learn a language or a new skill..

(Jun 14, 2020 10:27 AM)Megatron Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) True, most people would need to become super charismatic. Although, one could literally try every approach each day and one is bound to work. This strategy would take eternity for it to work on all women, however.

Megatron method, just try different approaches, eventually it will happen :D or just force it ;)

Nah im kidding but you can learn about them, every day you'll have higher chances. havent you saw 50 first dates movie with adam sandler? :D

2xTheTap115 - June 15, 2020, 6:08 am

(Jun 13, 2020 09:45 PM)Megatron Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I just finished watching Groundhog Day (1993) for the first time and it made me wonder what it would be like to repeat one day for an indefinite amount of time. You could do pretty much anything you want and you cannot die (if you die, you still wake up and repeat the day). Each day you wake up, you will still remember everything from the day(s) before.

What would you do if you had to relive a day indefinitely (think about the day you're replying to this thread on)?

I'm not sure what I would do. I would try to do various things and I think I would start radically, until I get a little more sane about the situation. I'm interested to hear everyone else's thoughts.

I think I would try everything I am subconsciously afraid of. I would use this time to explore my own borders and try to move them as far as possible

?ystem - June 15, 2020, 10:53 am

I've actually put a lot of thought into this very question over the years just in case. For a good solid portion of the time spent reliving each day would be spent doing some actions I wouldn't normally do due to consequences, just to get it out of my system and move on. Then I would go about researching ways to return to the normal progress of time and attempt to reach it.

Wespa - June 15, 2020, 11:27 am

Well if I was in the same financial situation that I was in right now I'd love to see how far out I can go from my current location.

Megatron - June 15, 2020, 12:20 pm

(Jun 15, 2020 10:53 AM)?ystem Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I've actually put a lot of thought into this very question over the years just in case. For a good solid portion of the time spent reliving each day would be spent doing some actions I wouldn't normally do due to consequences, just to get it out of my system and move on. Then I would go about researching ways to return to the normal progress of time and attempt to reach it.

I agree. It'd be interesting to be able to do things you wouldn't normally be able to do. It would be a weird circumstance to relive a day over and over.

(Jun 15, 2020 11:27 AM)Wespa Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Well if I was in the same financial situation that I was in right now I'd love to see how far out I can go from my current location.

That would be the ideal scenario. In the movie, he hardly had anything, but if you wake up over and over at home, you would have a lot more capabilities.

Skateboard - June 22, 2020, 6:10 pm

A day of infinite possibilities would sound really fun. I would do everything that I ever wanted to do over and over again :)

DeITex - June 22, 2020, 8:24 pm

I've seen it as well. Interesting movie.

I'm not sure what I'd do. It seems kind of hellish to be fair. If I knew there was a set amount then I'd probably kill myself a couple different ways to try and find an understanding on what death feels like for different people, since there's not a really good way to study this otherwise. But yeah, if it happened I don't know what I'd do. Start running and see how far I could go? Try to make the day as productive as possible? Successfully rob a bank? Become locally famous as a telepathic, being able to tell everyone so much about themselves. Not sure, and personally not something I'd wish upon myself or anyone else.

?WhatTheJoint? - June 23, 2020, 12:48 am

LOL bro its a really funny to see

Wespa - June 23, 2020, 1:40 am

I'd go crazy, I saw a youtube video on the movie and apparently the dude spent like 8 years trapped in the day.

I'd go insane, imagine seeing the same exact things for 8 years in a row.

Renowned - June 23, 2020, 6:36 am

A day just isn't long enough to do most cool shit.

Skateboard - June 25, 2020, 5:22 am

A day might not sound like much but a day of infinite possibilities is xD

Artisan - July 3, 2020, 4:30 am

I would probably try to acquire a new skill so that when that day is finally over, I can use the newly acquired skill to get some moolah.