I wanted to share with HF one of my favorite FAP North Korean propaganda video. I am surprised they haven't censored the comment section yet. They have plenty more videos on their channel about your "average life" in NK.

That's a good question, youtube recommended it to me. I watch a lot of NK documentaries and Chinese first hand/raw experience AKA Advchina, serpentza, and laowhy86. Videos that make the white knights of HF scream racism but these guys only speak the truth and their experience.

I think you are allowed to visit the country, but the way to get in there isn't as easy? as it is in other countries and you're only "allowed" to visit places and follow a strikt day structure with them watching you all the time.

I think they don't let anyone in, they only let journalists, reporters and people with some sort of political power in general. And if they do let common people, they must be only accepting relatively large groups, because they have to set up their visit area to look like it's a great place lmao.

Did the US Student had any political "power" before he visited NK and later died because they accused him of stealing a poster? Don't think so, saw a lot of videos where more than just 5ppl visit the Country. Sure large groups but what would the NK life be without the people training everyday for the visitors?

No they really have a water park. It is propaganda so it's probably only in use when they want to show it off though.
