We all lost things through time which we either lost, forgot somewhere, or stolen.

So, what's the most valuable thing you've lost?

Lost a gold chain I had since I was like 8 years old, whoever found it fuck you.

It was my fault but can't accept the fact I was a failure to my own personal self.

The most valuable thing I ever lost was a friendship

I knew I would lose this friendship

I misplaced my f1 racing watch, wearing a watch and using a keyboard doesn't work out for me.

Your turn ^^

a tough question, i'd probably say my time. i could have spent it more wisely.
Never lost something with significant value.

I had one of these Sony Ericsson Walkman phones back in the day, a good one. I somehow lost it at school and I remember it was a very sad day. Never lost something of high value again.

I had shit stolen by my ex after she cheated on me. I blame her mother though, she was extremely money-grabbing and would do anything to "borrow" money from someone. I guess I should have known, like mother like daughter eh?

Eth wallet code from when it was 20$ might be it

Artisan - June 20, 2020, 4:19 am

Im pretty careful so I dont lose or forget things. Have been fortunate enough to not have stuff stolen either. Only thing was stolen from me was a seiko watch I had back in the day.

I don't attach to material things and I could name a lot of those I lost. But it seems to me that the most valuable thing I lost in time was my health. I left a large part of it at parties???

itcorp - June 20, 2020, 4:22 pm

What is valuable in my life is family,friends,health and freedom which thank God I did not lose and everything else I do not consider valuable because in my opinion these are transient things that come and go.
