

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: Skateboard's Testimonial - Thank You

Skateboard - June 23, 2020, 6:13 pm

Hello, I'm Skateboard. I joined the forums on Monday, March 23rd, 2020. I admire learning about computers, I've always found them to be wonderful! I enjoy keeping my computer safe and protected while carrying out normal daily tasks. So, I always gravitated towards learning about the subject. I never considered myself to be a pro but at the same time be above average in having a basic understanding of.

I remember reading forums about how to clean your computer using anti-viruses and more. I loved to read about it and just learn. So when I heard about HF on the internet I became an immediate fan. HF has influenced my life in a positive manner because it showed me White Hat Malware, Virus, and Rat Removal Help and tons of useful info that could help instead of tearing down the community. People helping each other not only in that section but in all sections providing much-needed help and support for the community.

I've always been anti-unethical-hacking and loved to learn how to protect my computer from such viruses and activities. I admired that HF teaches information openly on this subject for the sole purpose of educating the community.

Which reminds me the other reason why I joined was to contribute to my best of ability, so I decided to upgrade to L33t and host contests giving back $10 BTC to a winner a few times and I plan to continue that trend in the future too!

I later upgraded to Ub3r, made tons of friends, and achieved many goals and targets. I enjoy the many perks of this forum from +Popularity, Usergroups, ?ytes, forum games, the community, and just all of the wonderful features of HF has to offer!

It's truly amazing and awe-inspiring in my honest opinion of how much work was put into the forum. It just goes to show that not all hacking communities are not at all bad and illegal and that HF is actually really an honorable and respectable website, unlike the negative stereotypes that come with the word 'hacking'.

From contests to The Lounge for relaxed topics to the currency exchange forum. Discussion to the games and Hacker tools the community is strong and is working together as a team to make it a better place for all. I have already made so many friends and acquaintances here.

HF has forever influenced my life in a positive manner for these reasons. I give it my best shot to remain contributing, learning, and respecting the forums for a long time to come. Thank you for reading my Testimonial. An approved Testimonial thread that grants me the Testimonial award would be appreciated and I would be so thankful for. I admire the awards that I have already earned and it would mean a lot to earn another badge =)

Thank You