flavoral - June 28, 2020, 5:58 am

Today, we hit 10,000,000 total cases worldwide of corona (COVID19)

Now where's all them retards who flexing few months ago about how they won't get infected and the ones saying that the flu is worse.

Simplex - June 28, 2020, 5:59 am

Almost 500K deaths too. Crazy times.

Great stats. Now let's analyse them a bit..

50% of the 10M recovered. Meaning 5M people are fine now.

500k are 'death' which mean the majority of the people that get it, will be fine. Less people died of the "Covid-19" dangerously virus than the regular flu. So only 1% of the cases that get's it are dying?

Meaning that we are ALL forced to wear masks and keep our distance for 1% of (10M infected) people while we have billions and billions of people around the globe? Also when comparing the death rate (including age of the victims) compared to the regular flu deaths (including the age of victims) you see a clear similarity; <https://gyazo.com/ddd9e719c65e712677189302043d6587.png>

Where are all the retards who claim that Covid-19 is such a "deathly decease". Only 1% of 10M people died, world wide, while the rest is 'hurt' by keeping distance, elders are lonely and forced to stay inside, people are forced to live by rules they don't want just for 1% of the 10M that died?

Even the head of the decease centre in Europe stated publicly that keeping social distance and wearing masks does not decrease any risk or does anything against the virus itself.

What is it about? 3 words;

Because it is not that serious..

Why are people allowed to protest against BLM and the Police? Because it divides groups.

Why are people not allowed to protest against the 1.5 distance? Because it re-unite groups.
I could go on and on about this for days.

And this is just the tip of the iceberg. Imagine if they we able to test a lot more world wide. In my country the death rate is 4.8% of all infected. I imagine the figure is much higher in poorer countries

I remember, lol. People saying on social media- the flu is worse guys theres nothing to worry about it wont be an issue

Thing is the government doesnt want our economy to go to shit so theyre leaving everything open and people are dropping like flies, soon we will not be able to accommodate all the new cases. Florida had 10k new cases yesterday, in one day. In the start of june, it was like 1k cases a day. Things are getting a lot worse.

Have you taken into consideration the amount of people who don't get tested?

The amount of people who died without getting tested?

AFAIK even the USA mostly only do the PCR tests for critical and elderly people. (CC Charger as he himself had to go through this)

Example of an article talking about how the real number could be x10 more than the current official numbers due to the lack of testing and false results

https://www.businessinsider.com/real-number-of-coronavirus-cases-underreported-us-china-italy-20-4

Someone might not die from it, but they can infect a lot of other people if they didn't take enough safety measures. Yes masks won't kill the virus, but it lower the chances of it being spread and that's much better than nothing. Otherwise, why would you see a doctor wearing are than stuff to protect themselves while dealing with corona cases. Add to the risk of a long term lung damage.

Look at Italy and how it turned quickly to the worse there. When a hospital turns into a hospital dealing with corona cases, most of the times, they have to deny other type of cases. So you won't be able to go do a checkup on something due it being in quarantine. It got to a point there were hospitals where full, and people could just die in their houses cuz nobody can help them.

Use your brain and logic. This whole situation could've been much lower if people didn't refuse to wear masks, social distance, and go do the opposite by going to party.

The whole idea is to minimize the spread while being able to handle the current cases and other cases not related to covid19. But if people don't want to take the lowest safety measure of at least wearing a mask? I personally think that you should signed a waver where the gov won't be covering for your recovery cost at your own risk.

There isn't unlimited number of hospitals nor an unlimited number of doctors. If you don't want to take sefety measure, you do you, but don't cry if you can't find a hospital bed for your parents that you infected cuz that's what's happening in some countries.

I could go on and on about this for days.

Ah yes, might also say that they're forcing social distancing to install 5G towers and control us. lol gtfo

Now you want to compare it to other viruses?

People were saying that it's not worse than SARS and MERS, but it clearly is proven that it's spreading speed is much higher which will eventually reflect on the number of death.

Compare it to the flu?

At least for the flu you have medical option to try and treat the patients, most of you can do for Covid is give them vitamins and give them oxygen.

Goku - June 28, 2020, 6:38 am

I've spent my day the same how I would without corona.

I travel a lot of times in a week.

Sometimes I'm in Amsterdam, sometimes Arnhem or I go to Den Haag.

Since this month we were required to wear masks even though they don't help...

But in all honestly, I've never been sick or felt bad. My mom had cancer so she would def notice if we had corona.

A couple of weeks ago, a friend of mine was sick. I still chilled with him, smoked a couple of joints and I didn't get sick.

So if you ask me, this whole corona shit is bullshit. But we shall see.

Trust me man, masks do help, even if it's 1%. It might not protect you in some cases, but it does protect other people you interact with by lowering the amount of particles spreading from you to them. That's what people keep refusing to understand.

Charger - June 28, 2020, 7:31 am

You all need to read up on a few topics such as how many are being tested, asymptotic cases, presumed positive, and age-adjusted mortality rate vs the flu.

Here's some bait

Quote:Both viruses are most deadly for the elderly. The flu kills .83% of infected people above age 65, whereas the coronavirus's death rate is 10.4% for infected people from age 65 to 74, 20.8% for the 75-84 group, and 30.1% for people over 85.

show me a logical explanation proving that masks 100% don't stop the spread of the virus.

Use one of the few brain cells you have, a tissue, a N95mask, a surgical mask, cotton mask, a book, are all considering a some sort of "wall" which stop particles from going through the other side with different degrees of spread. In other words, it lower the amount of particles being spread from your mouth or nose in the air which could infect another person and it goes both ways. ?

Did you see on TV that Hillary lost the case in the missing emails? (May / June)? No.. why not? Because COVID-19 is here!

Did you see the elite pedophile that was linked to Prince of England? No... why not? You should social distance!

Did you see the police brutality that killed the innocent black man? YES.. why? Because it divides groups of people, regardless if you are pro-police or against-police.

I can argue about this all day, but you'll see that I am right about it.

There is no "allowing" and "not allowing" of protests, people just do it regardless of what anyone says. Who in the hell said people weren't "allowed" to protest the stay in orders? Literally 4 different states in the US have done exactly that; protest against the stay in order.

Use one of the few brain cells you have, a tissue, a N95mask, a surgical mask, cotton mask, a book, are all considering a some sort of "wall" which stop particles from going through the other side with different degrees of spread. In other words, it lower the amount of particles being spread from your mouth or nose in the air which could infect another person and it goes both ways. ?

If they're going to require mask wear, they better enforce it properly.

Pretty much this.

Face masks don't really do much. The whole point the government wants you to wear them is so that YOU don't spread anything should you have it, it's not to protect you from getting it. Supposedly the mask won't stop you from getting it, it only slightly prevents it.

Who knows though, it's all too new and everyone including the CDC and WHO are trying to still get answers.

Your math is flawed.

You can't count the currently infected in any math, the only math you can count is RECOVERED or DECEASED.

This means so far around 9-10% of people who come out the other end of the virus DIE.

So yeah, there may be 10 million people or whatever WITH the virus, but none of them have RECOVERED or DIED. Once they become part of that statistic, then it means something, and currently 9-10% of people who get carona, DIE. So 1 in 10 is reasonable to you?

It's honestly awful, the deathrate almost at 500k as well. I remember being frustrated at work being forced to wear a mask, after seeing someone get the virus first hand I don't think twice about it. I don't care that I am far from the high risk age group, at my job and at home I interact with elderly and I refuse to be the reason they get sick. I don't personally believe a lot of what the media has to say, as I think it is a government fabrication to keep compliance during their research but I understand and respect people ARE getting sick and some of those sick are getting heavy implications and potentially dying. Thoughts out to anyone affected.

Now to be fair there is still 6 months to prove my comment wrong, but I think I got pretty close considering most countries are seeing a very low number of new cases now. I did expect all countries to take it seriously though and I didn't account for Karens or utter incompetence. For example in my country our few new cases are mostly foreign workers who were exempt from the 14 day quarantine upon entering the country who have now spread it to a few of their co-workers. I couldn't in my wildest imagination have thought politicians could get that stupid after being the ones who freaked out the most earlier. But overall my original stance still stands; there is no need to panic, we're not all gonna die. This is not some supervirus. updated stats of it hitting 500k deaths as of today

So by tomorrow it should surpass the amount of deaths from flu you mentioned in just about 6months. Countries are opening up, which if it will be dealt with the same half-rule method they did few months ago, it will result in a bigger second wave. Also if you see the stats of some countries, some are still rising including Brazil which just hit 1k daily deaths.

Not everyone will die, and we don't want anyone to die. However people saying that "social distancing and wearing masks is useless" is just retarded. I've seen people in my country who kept laughing about it and not taking it seriously just to then get infected, and then infect their family and end up dying with his dad from it. It's just sad to see people still believe that it's some conspiracy and neglecting the reality of some people dying.

If you ask anyone who went through some of the major symptoms of Covid19, they will tell you that it's not like a normal flu.

There's indeed no need to panic, but the way people acting as if there's no virus is outrageous. Also people who keep saying "it's mostly old people who would die from it" as if they don't have parents or grandparents. There's also a lot of cases where babies died and young people died, the % is way lower, but why even take the risk?

Also wrong, you're only considering the people who had it and beat it but didn't get tested, but don't also include the people who had it and died without getting tested. We also haven't seen the results of it spreading in poor countries like the mid african countries if it ever spreads there.

Because the people who died of covid without being counted as a covid death is basically non-existent compared to people who had covid and showed no symptoms or covid positive patients whose cause of death was something completely different yet is counted towards the covid death toll. There is less than 10 countries whose death toll today surpassed 100 covid deaths.

Many western governments and the WHO recommended AGAINST wearing masks, meanwhile east Asian countries proved just how important wearing masks is. Only recently, when it is obviously too late, this advice has changed. It's not this virus that is the most dangerous but our incompetent governments in the west, because there will be another virus like this and people, in general, are incapable of doing something logical if the nanny state they were raised to never question recommends the opposite.

Regardless, the elite is raking in money and further strengthening their monopolies as small businesses suffer.

We've only had 7.6k cases and 104 deaths since this all started. So about a 1.5% mortality which imo is extremely good.

Don't say that, he is a sensitive puppy. He will block you too. Then you won't be able to sleep at night.

It's all about 2 things;
Social distance = divide & rule
Masks = less 'loving' interaction between lovers

We are all blindly being divided into groups of less and less people, until we are ruled without a choice. Then it's too late to protest.
Exactly right!

Wear a fugging mask, not so that you don't die because no one gives a shit about you, but so that elderly people don't die.

Wear a fugging mask, not so that you don't get sick because no one gives a shit about you, but so that at risk people don't get sick.

Wear a fugging mask, not so that you don't die because no one gives a shit about you, but so that our over crowded health care system can give a break to the doctors and nurses working 15+ shifts with little to no supplies. This isn't about dividing or some deep st@t3 agenda... it's about human decency.

if you're going on about human decency then wearing a mask if the least of the things you should be going on about.

Most of those stupid people are dead, atleast I hope they are. This world needs more intelligent and conscious people who dont think that a pandemic is a hoax.

I live in Florida and people are idiots here. No one takes it seriously

FX Kire - June 30, 2020, 4:43 am

I honestly do not believe that COVID-19 is really that harmful.

Pawnhub - June 30, 2020, 6:25 pm

I just hope everyone dies tbh.
Humanity needs a reset.

So 500,000 people die within a space of a few months isn't harmful. Can I ask what drugs you are on because they look extremely good.

Best you not LQ post.
